Marshall Appears Favorite With Opponents of Former Cabinet Man; Bryan Feared As Dry Plank Possibility

AUDITORIUM, San Francisco, July 1.—Possessed of enough votes to assure the defeat of William G. McAdoo for the Democratic nomination, but not in possession of any agreement which would throw the force of those votes to any other man, the anti-McAdoo camp today is a little body of determined and distrustful men.

In the hopes of fixing up a definite alliance with a program to be followed by the opponents to the son-in-law, they are working all night to no avail. They assured themselves that they had enough strength to prevent the McAdoo nomination, but were forced to turn without any promise that would agree at any time on the who is to be named.

Cox camp takes the position as there are not enough votes to land to defeat McAdoo there is need for a centralized leadership. Their candidate, at Dayton, is ready to start a non-flight to San Francisco in an effort to get the nomination.

If he is nominated at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, he expects to be in San Francisco by 9 o'clock.

EXISTENCE FORCES FOR DARK HORSE

A counter-move to meet the situation against the son-in-law, administration forces are scouting out for a dark horse to run in the place of McAdoo.

Horace S. Cummings and Bainbridge Colby are talked of. The latter is a cabinet officer that is tied to a dead horse.

There is a deadlock has developed some will shout, "Why not name William G. McAdoo?"

Then will come the announcement that the President will accept and the logical announcement of his choice for the place.

It is then that the son-in-law will be introduced until the platform is combination, which has been forced to accept the defeat of McAdoo.

Oakland Stage Star Seeks Name of Davis

MRS. JULIA BROWN, formerly actress, who seconded nomination of Ambassador Davis.

Former Izzetta Jewel Electrifies Crowd at Convention

AUDITORIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—Mrs. Julia Brown, formerly actress, who seconded nomination of Ambassador Davis.

When she told her story the crowd roared with laughter and the band blared forth with "Oh, You Beautiful Doll."

The spotlight was flashed on her and the crowd rose to its feet to cheer.

STORY TOLD TO POINT NECESSITY OF RATIFICATION

Mrs. Brown, blonde, ruddy, checked and smiling, stood looking over the cheering mass quite unruffled during the ovation.

She told the story to illustrate why the Democratic party should accept ratification of the suffrage amendment by November.

In one of her pauses a loud voice in the gallery came rolling down, "You beautiful, beautiful doll."

Mrs. Brown laughed as easily as if she had been paid a compliment at a quiet tea party.

WOMAN SWEEPS FROM PLATFORM SERENELY

"Oh, What a Pal Was Mary," intoned the band as Mrs. Brown swept from the platform as calmly and serenely as she would step from her own drawing room.

Mrs. Brown, who retired from the stage several years ago to become the bride of the eastern Congressman, inherited between $2,000,000 and $4,000,000 through the death of her husband.

Her real name while she was appearing on the stage of a local theater was Julia Jewell.

Her romance with Brown, a West Virginia banker, had dated from her appearance as leading woman in a play that was running at Washington in 1914.

Wine On Farm to Cut H. C. L. Urged by Wilcox

WILSON PLAN FOR LEAGUE IS DEFEATED

Walsh Wins Fight to Include Reservation for a Precise Definition of Obligations On U. S. When It Signs Up

Result Interpreted As Gain for Influences Opposing Treaty in Original Form Presented Before Senate

By J. BART CAMPBELL, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—An amendment to the so-called "Virginia plank" involving the league of nations, which would pledge the Democratic party "not to oppose the acceptance of any reservations making clear or more specific the obligations of the United States to the league associates," was adopted by a vote of 22 to 18 at a stormy, eight-hour session that ended at 3:30 o'clock this morning.

The amendment was forced upon the administration forces by Senator Edward L. Walsh of Massachusetts, one of the bitterest opponents of President Wilson's league of nations policy.

The Walsh amendment was added after the sentence in the "Virginia plank" which reads, "We advocate prompt ratification of the treaty without reservations making clear or more specific the obligations of the United States to the league associates."

ANTI-WILSON MEN COUNCIL IN VICTORY

The adoption of the amendment, in face of strongly expressed opposition by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, author of the "Virginia plank" and chief spokesman for President Wilson in the making of the Democratic platform, was construed by anti-administration leaders as a signal victory for them.

It was pointed out that the adoption of the Democratic platform with the Walsh amendment written into it would place the Democratic party on record for the first time as willing to have the treaty ratified by the Senate with any reservations.

Walsh, however, said that the obligations the American people would have to assume under the league of nations covenant.

Hereafter, it was stated, the position of the administration was that it did not oppose any reservations which were merely "interpretative" and "non-destructive."

The Walsh amendment was regarded by those who voted for it as paving the way for ratification of the treaty by providing the Democratic side of the Senate with a complete opportunity to support such reservations.

Before the adoption of the amendment, the Democratic side of the Senate was in a position to support such reservations.

Efforts of Vice-President Marshall and Senators Thomas J. Walsh of Montana and Allen Pomeroy of Ohio, and the Democratic side of the Senate, were defeated.

CONTEST ON FLOOR NOW THREATENED

Walsh Pleads in Vain for Proposal of Recognition of Independent Republic, But Is Given Chilly Ear

Bryan Lines Up His Forces for Finish Fight On Dry Issue; the Suffrage Subject Also Promises a Contest

AUDITORIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—The sub-committee plank proposing to leave settlement of the Irish question to the league of nations was rejected today by the full platform committee, which also voted down by a majority of two to one a blanket proposal favoring Irish independence.

The committee is not expected to report until 8 o'clock tonight. Frank P. Walsh, who is head of the American committee on Irish freedom, got before the committee at the request of a caucus of about 200 Irish sympathizers among delegates to the convention.

He told the committee the sub-committee plank proposing to leave the Irish question to the league of nations would be regarded by Irish-Americans as an evasion of the issue, and that it might be advisable to carry the fight to the floor of the convention.

Mr. Walsh advocated a plank pledging the party to diplomatic recognition of the Irish "republic." He declared he had been instructed by Irish sympathizers who are convention delegates to say that anything less would be considered an evasion of the issue.

Mr. Walsh was not permitted to argue before the committee, however, a request that he be given that privilege being voted down after he had gone into the committee room.

The motion that he be allowed to make an argument was made by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts.

Meantime the caucus of Irish sympathizers reassembled in a room a few feet away from the committee and organized for a struggle to the last ditch.

An executive committee of fifteen was appointed to continue the fight.

BRYAN READY TO FIGHT FOR BONE DRY

Bryan's prohibition plank, around which today's fight in the platform committee is centering, reads as follows:

"We heartily congratulate the Democratic party on its splendid leadership in the submission and ratification of the prohibition amendment to the Federal Constitution, and we pledge the party to the effective enforcement of the law."

Mr. Bryan, however, said that the amendment was not a "bone dry" plank, but a "moderate" one.

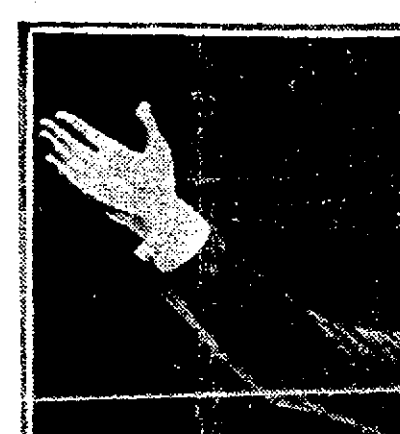

The convention resolutions committee, however, said that it was not a "bone dry" plank, but a "moderate" one.

Split in Party Prophesied If McAdoo Named

CHICAGO, July 1.—That James W. Gerard made the statement while en route to San Francisco convention that his candidacy for the Democratic nomination was "merely a blind for the 'crown prince'" and "that Secretary E. T. Meredith, riding on the same train, admitted that the same was true of the rest of the candidates," was the charge made here today by Francis J. Finerman, a delegate from Boston and president of the Democratic Club of Massachusetts.

Finerman was called home because of the serious illness of his son.

"The San Francisco convention, packed with federal office holders, undoubtedly will nominate McAdoo," said Finerman, "but when that happens or before there will be a split on the convention floor, resulting probably in combination with the Borah forces, in the formation of a third party."

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—U. S. G. C. H. of South Dakota, who placed Ambassador Gerard's name in nomination as a Democratic presidential candidate, said, regarding Finerman's statement:

"Such a statement sounds like an absolute falsehood. Gerard is a bona fide candidate in the race with the sincere purpose of securing nomination for himself."

Session Draws Great Throng, But No Demonstrations Are Attempted; Women to Fore—McAdoo's Name Stirs

AUDITORIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—With 14 candidates for the presidency in nomination, the Democratic national convention recessed at 1:15 this afternoon until 8 o'clock tonight.

This action was taken after the speeches nominating presidential candidates had been concluded and it was feared that the resolutions committee, which is drafting the platform, would not be ready to report to the convention until 8 o'clock.

The program when the delegates assemble again this evening provides for the consideration of the resolutions committee report at once. The convention is expected to vote on the platform as soon as debatable points are ruled out by the floor of the convention itself. It was expected that the prohibition and Irish questions and their proposed incorporation in the platform would be first threshed out on the floor of the convention tonight.

EFFORT TO START BALLOTING CRIED DOWN

In the convention would provide, upon adoption of the platform, for proceeding immediately to a ballot for the presidential nominee.

Recess this afternoon was preceded by a speech by the Fast men to start balloting at once on the presidential nominee. William Marshall, Iowa, moved the suspension of the rules for this purpose.

Mad supporters and other delegates raised a cry that was a "trick." Yells of "no, no" came rolling from the floor. There was so much noise of objection that it was impossible to muster the required two-thirds vote for suspension of the rules and withdrew his motion. He thereupon immediately moved the recess until 8 o'clock.

Nominations Are Resumed At Democratic Convention

Nichols, Episcopal, of San Francisco, hushed the Auditorium in prayer. Then the crowd repeated the Lord's Prayer and then remained standing while the "Star Spangled Banner" crashed from the pipe organ.

Judge Frank Murasky of San Francisco, the organ still playing, gave a dramatic cantillation of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." As Murasky finished came a soprano voice, singing the chorus in the gallery. The crowd came to its feet.

13,000 people, roaring the chorus, "Glory, Glory, Hallelujah."

A cheer leader, lean, gray, again led the crashing chorus. As the vast audience joined in the chorus for the last time, the roar of the hymn shook the state standards and fluttered the decorations on the balconies. Many women wept.

ANOTHER MCADOO CHEER IS RAISED

Chairman Robinson then ordered the resumption of the roll call of states for presidential nominations.

stopped yesterday, and recognized A. T. Hannett of Gallup, N. M., who seconded the nomination of William G. McAdoo, he said.

Another McAdoo demonstration threatened to start as Hannett made his speech—the briefest on record—but after a moment of cheering it died away.

When North Carolina was reached in the roll call, W. C. Newland placed in nomination Senator F. M. Simmons of that state. With his hands clasped comfortably over his stomach, his head wagging in emphasis, he voiced the praises of North Carolina's favorite son, declaring Simmons came from a state with less than one-half of one percent foreign-born population, a state that has never yet placed its electoral vote in the Republican column.

"And I pray you it never will," he shouted, amid cheers. "I, therefore, fellow Democrats present to this convention that matchless man and incomparable Democrat, the Honorable F. M. Simmons of North Carolina."

There was a momentary clamor of handclapping, yelling and blowing of horns in the North Carolina section.

CALIFORNIA WOMAN IS GIVEN A HAND

Mrs. Martha Nelson McCaun of California seconded Simmons' nomination. Removing her hat, she said: "Ladies and gentlemen: I now rise to second the nomination of Senator Simmons of North Carolina." The crowd cheered.

Oregon's chairman, when that state was called, announced that his delegation would "second the drafting of William G. McAdoo, a surprise as it had been expected Senator Chamberlain would be put in nomination. Cheers for McAdoo ran around the hall."

A woman in the Utah delegation, when that state was called, announced the delegation was unanimous in seconding the nomination of McAdoo.

P. D. Flood of Virginia then presented the name of Senator Carter Glass to the convention. As Flood mentioned Glass' name, the Virginia delegates leaped up, cheering. A woman jumped up in the gallery waving a handkerchief and the band struck up a lively air. The Virginia standard was uprooted and flourished.

The cheering subsided, the Virginians sat down en masse as one of their number, huskiest in the group, roared: "Silence—sit down!"

Yells for McAdoo came from various parts of the hall as the speech proceeded. Chairman Robinson had to pound for order. The Virginians chided again, but subsided when their muscular leader flourished a huge fist and bellowed: "Now, silence!"

LEADER NOISY

DEMANDING SILENCE

Flood continued painting a word picture of Glass as the most determined candidate. The husky leader of the Virginians made almost as much noise as the speaker. The delegates rose at his command and sat down at it. Between whistles he roared such comments as "wonderful!" and "beautiful!" and "very fine!" in a voice like a foghorn.

Flood mentioned the name of Champ Clark, incidentally. There was a burst of handclapping, quickly stopped.

Flood disputed the claims made

Electricity and Gas Rate to Go Up 15 Per Cent

The State Railroad Commission today issued an order authorizing the Pacific Gas and Electric Company to increase its rates for electricity by the addition of a 15 percent emergency surcharge to apply to all bills rendered beginning with July 10 and ending April 10, 1921—a period of nine months. Similar authorization was granted the Great Western Power Company. The commission's increase adds to the standard rate schedule of both companies the surcharges that have been allowed in previous applications, the emergency per cent wanted today being imposed on the combined rates.

Shortage of waterpower, increased fares and the necessity for production of electricity by steam were given as reasons for the commission's action.

According to officials of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, the increase will apply to all consumers, but will advance present prices in but trifling sums.

The period of nine months for the collection of the surcharge is fixed in the belief that by spring sufficient new hydro-electric power will have been installed to handle the situation.

In the case of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company it is estimated that the new rate will produce an additional revenue of $2,200,000 for the year ending July 1, 1921.

The increase in rates applies to all territories served by the company, including that operated and leased from the Sierra and San Francisco Power Company and the territory recently acquired through the purchase of the properties of the Northern California Power Company.

In the case of the Great Western Power Company the commission directs that the company bring to the level of its other rates its charges for municipal street lighting, street and railway power and power sold to other public utilities which three classes of service were excluded when surcharges were originally fixed July, 1919.

They expressed the opinion that Naomi and Silvio Piccone, instead of fighting out their battle for a divorce, had become reconciled.

Washington, Pa., Has Interest in Harding
 WASHINGTON, Pa., July 1.—If Warren G. Harding is elected President of the United States, this pretty little university city in the hills of western Pennsylvania will be bound up closer than ever with the White House, for not only did Senator Harding's ancestors live here but the father of President Wilson also was a resident of Washington.
 Senator Harding's great-grandfather, William Van Kirk, was one of the early settlers of Franklin township, and he and his wife are buried in the family graveyard on Steubenville, O., not far from here. Point Lookout. Senator Harding is honorary president of the Van Kirk family society and frequently has attended the annual reunion here.

 President Wilson's father, Rev. Joseph Ruggles Wilson, was born at Steubenville, O., not far from here, and in 1848 became pastor of the Hills Presbyterian Church at Canonsburg, near Washington.

WIT OF WILLIS AID TO HARDING

CHICAGO, July 1.—The long hours of oratory that mark every national political convention may have the tired delegates and spectators nearly to the point of exhaustion, but never kill their sense of humor. Occasionally a witty sentence or a quick rejoinder has been credited with having had a greater effect on the final result than all the oratory of the picked spellbinders.

At the recent Republican gathering at Chicago, Frank B. Willis, former governor of Ohio, was nominated Senator Warren G. Harding for the presidency. Ohio was far down on the list. The 12,000 sweltering persons, who crowded the big Coliseum had listened with only half interest to more than five hours of fervid oratory when Willis, closing his speech, said: "Well, boys and girls, let's nominate Harding."
 The friendly humor brought a ready response.

The next day, when the landslide toward Harding began, an Ohio admirer of the senator who had inscribed the sentence on a huge sheet of cardboard propped it up in the gallery. It made an instantaneous hit.
 Earlier in the contest, a negro delegate from Oklahoma, appearing before the credentials committee at 3 o'clock in the morning to press his claim for a seat, put new life into that body and won his point by a remark. Having told how the "big white" side had held its convention in a hotel from which negroes were barred by the proprietor, he said: "Why, gentlemen, in Oklahoma there's 'Jim Crowism' from the henhouse to the hotel."
 In the laugh that followed a motion to seat the contestant was carried unanimously.

German Potash Is Netting Big Profit

BERLIN, July 1.—One of the very few German industries that may be said to be flourishing is the potash industry. The production of this raw material and its derivatives is entirely in German hands and the demand for it both at home and abroad is constant and eager. One company has made during the last fiscal year a record net profit of $3,000,000 marks, while another has made nearly 18,000,000 marks.

Holiday Each Week Due Horse, Is Ruling

CHICO, July 1.—A horse which labors six days a week is entitled to a rest on the seventh, Judge H. D. Gregory of the Butte county Superior Court has ruled.
 This decision cost Rudin Brothers $125, although they were awarded a verdict in the suit against W. E. Luman for horse hire. The whole claim was about $800, but the court found the charge was made on the basis of working the animal seven days a week and cut off $125.

Police Judge's Trial Is Set for July 19

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—The Attorney General's office has announced that the trial of Police Judge John J. Sullivan, under indictment by the grand jury on a graft charge, will be commenced July 19. Announcement also has been made that the grand jury which indicted Sullivan and Peter P. McDonough, the latter accused of giving a bribe, will be dismissed within ten days. The jury was to have been dismissed last April but continued its work at the request of the Attorney General. No announcement has been made as to whether the new inquisitorial body will continue investigations of the alleged irregularities at the Hall of Justice.

Passport Rate Raise Is Effective Today

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Increased passport rates, issued under a bill passed at the end of the last session of congress providing for a charge of nine dollars instead of one dollar, became effective today.
 Representative Porter of Pennsylvania, chairman of the house foreign affairs committee, who drafted the original measure, will be the first person to pay the increased rate. His passport, enabling him to tour the Orient this summer with approximately one hundred other members of congress, was sent to San Francisco today by the state department.

MURDERER MUST HANG

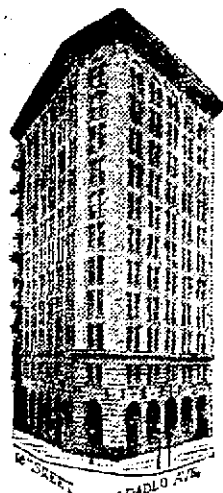

SANTA FE, N. M., July 1.—Governor Larrazels has decided against the plea of Elbert W. Blaneett for executive clemency, and Blaneett will be hanged on July 9. Blaneett shot and killed Clyde Armour of Sioux City, Ia., in Santa Fe county in the fall of 1918.
 Another "Pollyanna" by Eleanor H. Porter, "Mary Marie," will be the next Sunday TRIBUNE serial.

The Man With a Savings Account

--is a more valuable employee, other things being equal, than the one who has not. He shows a strength of character, a degree of common sense, which the one does not who lives up to—or beyond—his income; and employers are not slow in recognizing this trait when they are considering which man they will promote to a position of trust and responsibility.

No young man or woman can make a wiser decision than to open a savings bank account and add to it every pay day.

This is an opportune time to start—savings accounts opened before July 10th will draw interest from July 1st.

Husband and Wife Battle for Child

Indicating a court battle to determine who will get the custody of a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Renholtz today filed an answer and cross-complaint to the divorce suit of John Renholtz in which he charged his wife with being unduly friendly with another man and with neglecting her household duties and care of the child.

Mrs. Renholtz denies any misconduct with the other man who is not named. She denies her husband's charge that she would cook special cakes and pies for this friend while refusing to do the same for him, and says she cooked this pastry at her husband's command while he and his friend were playing poker for high stakes. Mrs. Renholtz admits she returned her wedding ring to her husband and declares she did so because he had treated her with such brutality.

JAPAN TO SEEK RUSSIA REVENGE

TOKIO, June 12 (Correspondence of The Associated Press.—By Mail).—From the press accounts concerning the decision of the government on important diplomatic questions it may be gathered that Japan has decided to take a strong military action against Russia in connection with the massacre of the Japanese at Nikolaievsk in May, as a means, as one paper puts it, "to preserve the dignity of the state."

Because of the lack of a strong Russian government to which a protest could be sent, it is explained that the Japanese government will take steps to occupy Nikolaievsk and neighborhood and Russian properties both governmental and private on the northern part of Sakhalin island, as a guarantee and basis for claiming compensation for damage when the establishment of a legal Russian government is consolidated in the future.

As regards the question of the revision or renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance the government has decided, it is said, to maintain the present pact which will continue to exist until one of the contracting parties announces denunciation of the agreement. Owing to the still unconsolidated state of the League of Nations and because of the existence of opposition to the alliance in Canada and Australia the present is not thought favorable for revising the treaty. Japan prefers, therefore, to postpone the revision of the pact and wait for an opportunity to secure proper recognition of the day and asks Parisians to decorate their homes with flags.

Doheny of Los Angeles, had spent millions of dollars in a campaign against Mexico, Roberto Pesqueira, Mexico's "Colonel House," called upon the United States government to exert pressure to prevent spreading of propaganda to discredit the southern republic. In a letter published by El Heraldo, Pesqueira declared the oil problems existing between the two countries were now about to be settled.

ELWELL SLEUTHS SUSPECT WOMAN

NEW YORK, July 1.—The "woman theory" again came to the front in the Joseph Elwell murder mystery today.

According to information in the possession of District Attorney Swann, Miss Anna Kane, former housekeeper to Elwell, had made a statement revealing that one of the slain (murderer's) married women friends, who was infatuated with him, had threatened to shoot him because of his attentions to other women.

Miss Kane is now living at her home in Ireland. According to Miss Kane, the married woman who made the threat posed under an assumed name during the period of her intimacy with Elwell. Finally, tired of her, the turfman transferred his attentions to another woman. Miss Kane said that another frequent visitor at Elwell's home about this time was a girl aged between 17 and 18, who came of a prominent Fifth avenue family. Unknown to her parents, this girl made a trip to Palm Beach with Elwell, the housekeeper said.

Tugs Trying to Free Oil Tanker Halway

Efforts are being made today to dislodge the 10,000-ton U. S. Shipping Board oil tanker Halway, which stuck on the ways at the Bethlehem shipbuilding plant when an attempt was made to launch her yesterday afternoon. Assistant General Manager Frank McClain declared this morning.

As Mrs. J. H. Talbot broke the bottle of champagne over the bow of the vessel, it started down the ways, but when it had traveled about one-third of the distance, it began to slow up and then stuck in the middle. Scores of workmen, aided by the three tugs which were waiting to tow the ship into a dock, were unable to dislodge the vessel.

McClain said he could not imagine what caused the unusual accident. Many are expected to attend the launching of the Shipping Board cargo steamer Mursa Saturday at the Moore Shipbuilding Company's plant here. A large number of Eastbay and San Francisco society folk will be present when Mrs. Harry Hayside of 100 Twenty-sixth avenue, San Francisco, smashes a bottle of sparkling wine against the bow of the $400-ton craft.

Manila Girl Arrives for U. C. Law Course

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—Womanhood is making rapid strides in the Far East and is now marching forth into the professions formerly controlled exclusively by the other sex, according to Miss Margaret Ferrier, daughter of J. W. Ferrier, Manila attorney, who arrived on the Pacific Mail steamship Santa Cruz yesterday. Miss Ferrier, who was born in Manila and is 17 years old, will enroll as a student at the University of California next term.

Manila Girl Arrives for U. C. Law Course

Miss Ferrier plans to become the first American woman to practice law in the Philippines. She expects to enter the law school as soon as she graduates from the U. C.

A Losing Investment

is made by the school teacher when she spends her money and years of her life in training for the profession.

Preparation for a high school certificate costs, in time and cash, about $20,000.

If this money were invested at 6 per cent., it would yield $1200 annually. So, out of the $2160 paid high school teachers after seven years of service, $1200 should be deducted as interest on their training-investment. This leaves the teacher getting only $960 a year, or $80 a month, for the time and energy and thought she puts into her work.

It is because they can get a good interest-return on their investment in training, PLUS A GOOD COMPENSATION FOR THE WORK THEY DO, elsewhere that the teachers are leaving the profession today to take up other businesses or professions.

That is why Oakland parents must pay their teachers "a professional wage for professional services" if they are to retain the best of them in the schools.

CONVENTION TRAINED TO EAT OUT OF WILSON HAND

Anti White House Men Find An Invisible Hand Pulling Strings to Influence Ballot

Leaders Play Their Parts in Faultless Manner But Behind Stage Sits Master of Ceremonies

By FREDERICK FAULKNER.

EXPOSITION AUDITORIUM, San Francisco, July 1.—As the convention takes up today consideration of that most important matter (harking back to past declarations of Democratic cohorts) of a party platform, little tides of bad feeling are plainly visible. They are running strong. They are driven by the harsh winds of the administration forces, directed to land President Wilson's choice in the coveted first position, regardless of the judgment of the convention.

Rebellious forces are fighting back. They are showing resentment at the tactics of the administration. They are not, but they do not relish being treated like children. They are afraid the convention is going to follow the program of the boss—of following the lead of the administration. They have the dismal feeling that big disappointment is ahead of them, but they don't like the methods of revolt.

COMBINATIONS MADE TO HEAT MACHINE

Today there are tentative combinations—on paper at least—to beat McAdoo. The combination is made up of the strong in the nominating show yesterday, and every delegate and visitor in the convention hall got a demonstration of the plan of procedure.

Yesterday was a pleasant day. During the hour for several men who wanted to be mentioned for the presidency passed eternally. The show was uniformly good and orderly. It was the day of make-believe, of satisfaction for the smaller conceits of men. Everybody was given the chance to deliver his prepared message without complaint. The spectacle of the seeming manner in which representatives of the people select a presidential candidate was staged in all but a faultless manner.

But in the shank of the afternoon the invisible force of direction began to show itself. The first maneuver was when Senator Harrison of Mississippi took the platform to second the nomination of Governor Cox of Ohio. Cox had been adequately seconded by a woman of Kentucky, so it was necessary for Senator Harrison to refer to him only in the closing sentence of his speech.

Senator Harrison's real purpose was to warn and exhort the convention against being influenced by the efforts of "enemies of the party." There were men and certain newspapers who were trying to dictate the result of the convention. Bless the people of San Francisco and their sincere hospitality," he said, but those who would tell the delegates what to do and whom to honor, the convention must disregard.

Senator Reed, the ousted Missouri delegate, had lost the second fight to retain the seat given him by the Kansas City conference. Newspapers had scored the convention for unsavory food and had recommended to the Committee of Forty-eight at Chicago to make it a presidential candidate. Mr. Bryan, a news writer and incidentally a delegate, had written much of criticism of President Wilson and the crew of the administration from the roller.

HAND OF WARNING LIFTED BY WHITE HOUSE

Here was the administration raising its voice of protest and warning. The decision to have Senator Harrison speak was reached during the morning. The convention cheered the declaration of freedom from outside influences.

A few minutes later, while the psychological effect of Harrison's remarks were still noticeable, Mr. McAdoo's name was presented to the convention. It came about in a manner made familiar by reports of the last few days—in a skilful, insincere manner. Nobody was deceived, and in a well-staged demonstration that followed, the administration was followed by delegates stood fast. Tammany, guarded its banner securely and grimly.

Rev. Burris Jenkins responded to a churchman's prayer for the nomination of William G. McAdoo. The prayer was made the afternoon before, but it was not received to the effect that Mr. McAdoo would be elected. The prayer was a telegram as might be revealed in the future, were absolutely false. The nomination of the future president from McAdoo was wholly unexpected.

Brother Jenkins was able to state that if McAdoo was elected he would not refuse to make the race. He would not refuse to make the race.

McAdoo TACTICS SHOWN RESULTS

McAdoo failed to draw the guns of the opposition last week when he announced he was not a candidate. He thought he would avoid the conflict about his possible nomination. He thought he would exhaust themselves and then he would step forth at the irresistible demand of the convention. He tried to keep the fire from yesterday. When the moment came the time to step to the front line trench and fire, he forgot the gallant method, the eyes-to-the-front attitude of a soldier. He turned his eyes aside and assumed a retreating pose.

This has not made a bit with the convention. The Cox and Palmer forces are this morning exploiting the obvious fact that Mr. McAdoo's attitude. The bluish on the cheek of the son-in-law is pointed, they say, and in his heart he is saying "give me."

Notwithstanding, the McAdoo demonstration was the largest in volume during the day. His supporters had patiently retained their places during the hours devoted to other candidates and were ready when the Missouri clergyman stumbled over the truth. The audience had dwindled to one-third its initial capacity. The delegates milled around the hall for a longer time than given to any other candidate.

The Cox demonstration had the most signs of sincerity. Yet to all but a few more persons from the Ohio delegation it seemed difficult to get under way. And to those who saw there was a pathetic conflict between the seasoned, able ring manager of the Cox forces and a vain-glorious university student in flannels. And the youth, making contortions as a yell leader in front of a battery of moving picture cameras.

DELEGATES FACE FIGHT BY WOMEN FOR EARLY VOTE

By DAVID M. CHURCH, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—The Democratic National Convention may yet undergo a siege from the militant suffragists.

Suffragists were called into session today by Mrs. Abby Scott Baker to consider what should be done to force the convention to bring its weight to bear on executives of Democratic states that the suffrage amendment may be ratified in time to permit women to vote in the primaries to be held in eight states in August.

"Something has to be done and it looks as though the Democrats would have to do it," Mrs. Baker said.

The mere insertion of a suffrage plank in the platform won't satisfy us—that would be merely saving the face of the Democratic party. We want the Democrats to do something about Tennessee and North Carolina. If those two states can be forced to ratify within the next few weeks, it seems possible that the American woman may begin to exercise their right of franchise this summer.

PUT IT UP TO DELEGATES.

At tonight's well-attended session of putting this question before the Tennessee and North Carolina delegations and making them responsible for the final effort to ratify in time in those two states in July.

Representatives of the National Woman's party, who planned a conference with Tennessee delegates tonight, called it off, saying that the delegation showing no disposition to confer with the suffragists, but the women will meet the North Carolina delegates.

Secretary Daniels has been enlisted and Mrs. Baker said he has promised the woman to use his influence to obtain a call for a special session of the North Carolina delegation to ratify the suffrage amendment.

While the suffragists are planning their siege, the women of the convention are engaged in a little internal fuss as to the best method to follow to obtain the franchise early this summer.

DIVIDE OVER ISSUE.

Women of the Tennessee delegation are divided as to whether they should be a wise move to urge Governor Roberts to advance the date of the special session of the Tennessee legislature, that ratification may be complete in time. Some are urged by Miss Clara O. Williams, believe it would not benefit the cause to attempt to force the hand of Governor Roberts. Other women want pressure brought on the governor for a July legislature.

SMITH DEMONSTRATION WAS COMPLIMENTARY.

When Governor "Al" Smith of New York was nominated a scene, unprecedented in an important respect, in any American political convention was staged. At the conclusion of the election, presented by W. Burke Cockran, delegation after delegation left its place and joined the singing, marching line, until every state but one was paying a tribute to the New York man. The solitary nonconformist was North Carolina. Smith is a Catholic. He was placed in nomination, it was stated by the New York delegation, to establish the precedent that a Catholic might be considered by a convention. With alacrity the convention responded to give him a friendly honor.

Another precedent was established in national conventions when Mrs. George Bass became the first woman to act as presiding officer. The relieved Senator Robinson for a few minutes later.

The last nominating speech yesterday was made by John F. Crosby of Connecticut, on behalf of Homer Cummings. And the first nomination of the convention was announced when the "Cummings" was mentioned. A gentle tribute to the services rendered by the chairman of the national committee, Senator Crosby of Oklahoma. The first of the advertised candidates to be presented to the convention, got a small and feeble greeting and former Ambassador James W. Doolittle, Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska did not receive a second to their nominations. Mr. Bryan had the mantle of his favor full upon him, and the crowd of delegates, who were to be the mainstay of the convention, refused to give a delegate's seat.

Divine Guidance for Delegates Is Asked by Bishop William Nichols

AUDITORIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—William F. Nichols, Episcopal bishop, delivered the following prayer at the opening of the convention today: "Oh Lord, Thou art king, be the people ever so impatient. Thou sittest between the Cherubim, the people never so impatient. Thou art the God of our fathers. They invoked Thee in the declaration of our independence. They appealed to Thee as the supreme judge of the world, for the rectitude of their intentions. They published in that charter of American liberty their firm reliance on the protection of Thy divine providence. And it was with that reliance they pledged to each other their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor. Thy overruling divinity dictated the democracy."

"Today amid our momentous American issues we pause in a hush of reverence to ask Thy voice to come to this great representative assemblage and to enable it to interpret the voice of the people as the voice of God. Voice the vain human tones of this very prayer that it may become a force and not a farce conventional. Voice into the heart and conscience of everyone present the realization of Thy righteousness as the evaluation of every nation and every party. Voice Thy guidance in the issues and policies of every platform that it may formulate far-seeing welfare for the nation. Voice candor in every utterance and committee and discussion and measure and vote the still, small voice of a compelling conscience. Out of the lurid lessons of the world war—wreck of the century—deepen in all our politics and statesmanship the sense that might is only right when the voice of the people proves the voice of God."

"Behold and bless Thy servant, the President of the United States, and all in authority. And keep ever before this convention and our country the vision and aim of that first president of our broad American democracy as phrased by George Washington: 'The restoration of order and our ancient virtues—the extension of genuine religion—and the consequent advancement of our respectability abroad and of our substantial happiness at home.' All of which we ask for Jesus' sake. Amen."

Four ten-year-old Boy Scouts formed a noisy part of the McAdoo demonstration. They were the youngest ever to be in the crowd.

McAdoo's demonstration was the largest in volume during the day. His supporters had patiently retained their places during the hours devoted to other candidates and were ready when the Missouri clergyman stumbled over the truth. The audience had dwindled to one-third its initial capacity. The delegates milled around the hall for a longer time than given to any other candidate.

ALL CANDIDATES ARE FAR SHY OF NECESSARY VOTES

By MARLEN E. PEW, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

AUDITORIUM, San Francisco, July 1.—Now the fearful nomination hour approaches. Strong hearts are quaking. No man knows the name of the bridegroom. The convention is in a flutter of excited discussion concerning points for and against the distinguished group of gentlemen whose names have been formally proposed as standard bearers in the mighty contest to come.

No candidate here now possesses sufficient pledged or even remotely indicated strength to hurdle the necessary two-thirds majority of 728 votes. That fact is as plain as Billy Bryan's bald spot. There must be a landslide or a coalition of forces for anyone of them.

Dark horses are still possibilities. Just at this moment the indication is that there may be a deadlock. The first ballot will reveal little of significance. The administration forces appear as usual today. The big noise is not, however, concerning the rag-tag and bob-tail of nominating speeches, for avowed candidates, on the roll call from New Jersey down, but rather the men who begin to exercise their right of franchise this summer.

Tight Delegations Are Split Dope Makers Pause for Rest New York Now Pivotal State

By AD. SCHUSTER

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—Nominating presidential candidates before the Democratic national convention is much like the old-time graduation exercises in high school. In these days the names of the candidates are not known to the delegates. The names of the candidates are not known to the delegates. The names of the candidates are not known to the delegates.

Francis J. Heney and Mayor Burton of Berkeley were among the leaders for McAdoo. Mrs. Ormsby and others being conspicuous by their absence. The second largest uproar was that for Governor Smith of New York, but it did not mean anything except a magnificent tribute to the man who had been a perfect party man for years. The crowd of delegates to the convention was estimated at 1,000. The delegates were split between the various candidates. The delegates were split between the various candidates. The delegates were split between the various candidates.

COCHRAN MAKES GOOD SPEECH FOR SMITH

The veteran Bourke Cockran, talking with the ease of a man addressing a committee of five, delivered a masterly oration for Smith in which he implied plainly that he did not expect the candidate would be nominated. He was unopposed as a result of a demonstration in which every one could take part—with his fingers crossed.

Rev. Burris Jenkins of Kansas City made a hit at the start by making his speech short. It was the only talk which left out "the man who" and brought a promise of adjournment and dinner to the crowd.

Jenkins said that he had intended to make a speech, but as McAdoo had not run off in the future any one would say that I have received one. It is a lie. Was he Jenkins put the McAdoo acceptance before the convention. Then he spoke the words that started the crowd and left the crowd to do the rest.

The way the states joined in the son-in-law's parade was startling to all of those who save the tight little group who refused to move and who realized that a day of a day and a half will have passed before the nominations. New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Ohio, West Virginia, Iowa, Connecticut, Indiana and Georgia never bided. Illinois' banner, battered and torn after a fist fight on the floor, wobbled along and Monahan joined in later some argument between delegates. There were more than 430 votes seated during the demonstration. Had it been possible to ballot right away McAdoo might be the nominee today.

TAMMANY IN TUNE

When Tammany—to the tune of "The Sidewalks of New York" rolled about the hall in honor of the beloved Al Smith, the pretty school teacher from the little Montana town was choked with emotion. McAdoo IS REAL THING

As for the McAdoo demonstration—it seemed proportionate to the made it the end of a perfect day for the overwrought crowd. The Tennessee delegation decided yesterday afternoon not to wire Governor Roberts to call the session of the legislature sooner than the date decided upon by him—August 9.

Just as there were some ultimate McAdoo votes in the crowd which did not march so were there banners moving which represented but a part of the ballots of their states. Florida, for instance, marched in every parade and seconded the nomination of Edwards. Illinois marched for Palmer. Alaska marched for every one, and others marched two and three times. It may be said that the anti-McAdoo alignment stuck to their places in the face of the convention's greatest demonstration.

When he started in, "Eight years ago," there was an apprehensive groan which was justified by the fact that he made the longest speech of the day. Every time Porter

red from the committee rooms, the administration leaders, but assistants-at-arms and policemen were instructed by Senator Glass first to keep the National east and later fifty feet from the closed doors.

Hour after hour the newspapermen patiently, though sleepily, maintained the watch. "Ad," while from a distance voices raised in angry utterances could be heard from within the room. Bryan's ringing tone, keyed to a high pitch of anger, could be easily recognized. When Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, talking into a strong demand for the adoption of his amendment and his eloquent bass rattled the transoms of the door.

When the doors were finally flung open and tired-looking Senators and other fagged-out members of the committee streamed slowly from the room, it was with the eagerness besieging them on every side, eagerly described the long, hard fight over the President's league stand as follows:

"Bryan, just close your eyes and imagine yourselves back in the Senate during the treaty fight there and you will be able to form an accurate idea of what we have been doing all of this time."

It was learned that it was Senator Walsh who made the greatest impression on the administration members of the committee with a speech in which he warned the "big boys" that if it went to the people on a platform with a candidate opposed to any reservations clearly safeguarding American rights under the League of Nations, it would be courting certain defeat in November.

The arguments by Walsh, Bryan and other opponents of the "Virginia plank" were reported to have incurred the displeasure of Senator Glass.

Glass did not attempt to meet Walsh's arguments, however, it was thought he, like most of the other nine members of the "steering committee," was among the eighteen on the full committee who voted against it.

Bryan was an impassioned plea against "one-man rule" and he directed his thrusts not only against the President's "insistence that the Senate alone ratify the treaty in accordance with his own opinions and demands," but against the "big boys" who were bent upon preparing a platform on which the Democratic party must go to the people than some of those who had been appointed.

Bryan, like Vice-President Marshall and Senators Walsh of Montana and Pomeroy of Ohio, who opposed the "one-man rule" and he directed his thrusts not only against the President's "insistence that the Senate alone ratify the treaty in accordance with his own opinions and demands," but against the "big boys" who were bent upon preparing a platform on which the Democratic party must go to the people than some of those who had been appointed.

MY HEART and MY HUSBAND

By ADELE GARRISON

How Madge Held Steadfastly to Faith and Hope.

She squirmed in her chair as an uneasy kitten might have done.

"He said he'd seen a lot of Dicky," she declared defiantly. "And if that doesn't mean over at the Fairfaxes, I don't know what does, for from the things Alfred told me I know Alf's there more than half his time."

I laughed and blew her a kiss. "You little fraud!" I said good-naturedly. "If the boys could hear you they would declare your imagination is working overtime again."

She pouted resentfully, even as her pretty laugh bubbled up from her lips. It is a tense and tragic moment indeed for Mrs. Duple when she cannot greet everything with a laugh.

I don't understand you at all, Madge, she asserted. "If Dicky were my husband and staying downtown for a month or two, and gallivanting around with a pretty girl, I'd snatch him bald-headed!"

"You wouldn't!" I returned, comically snipping a thread from a pair of pink "creepers" I was making for my small son.

"Walking chairs," I cleverly constructed framework on wheels, which allows baby to stretch his limbs and go through the motions of walking without bearing his whole weight upon his immature muscles—was amusing all over the screened veranda. "You'd be a sensible lady, as I am, and realize that when there is an unusual stress of work on hand a man has to stay in the city, and you wouldn't object to his calling on his friends or even taking them out to dinner on the theatre."

A PRIVATE FRONT.

It cost me an effort to say this calmly and pleasantly. First, because, dear friend as little Mrs. Durkee is, I inwardly resented her attitudes upon my affairs. And second, because I was by no means as complacent over the news she had brought me as I outwardly appeared.

Now that I was again alone in a really jealous of Edith Fairfax. That she still hopelessly loved Dicky I was sure, although her war work had given her other interests, and had broadened her horizon so that she would never again be as unhappy over him as she had been. But during the time following Dicky's airplane accident, vision had been given me to see many things, and among them was the glorious truth that despite all his volatile unstableness my husband's heart was supremely mine.

MRS. DICKENS STATIONERY.

I was not idiotic enough to believe that I never would face the danger of losing him, but I knew that his fancy would never be enmeshed by a girl of Edith Fairfax's gentle, rather colorless nature. The rare beauty, the imperious ways, the touch of diabolism of the Grace Draper type of girl would always spell danger, at least temporarily for me. But our marital love had weathered one such test, and I resolutely shut my eyes to the possibility of another. And as for the idle, graceful attentions from Dicky to his studio friends, I had long since made up my mind that I would waste neither time nor emotion in needless thought over them.

Other to carry out that resolve, not only in the letter, but in the spirit. So, while I was able to keep my face composed, my hands from trembling, yet any wife will understand that my brain did not exactly enjoy the pictures which little Mrs. Durkee's words had flashed upon it. Inconsistently selfish, indeed, I must admit. I would rather have visualized my husband sulking in his studio over our disagreement than have pictured him making a joyous Fourth in the outings of Alfred Durkee and the Fairfax girls.

And despite my outward composure little Mrs. Durkee was shrewd enough to read my thoughts.

"You're a good talker, Madge," she said calmly putting out a steady hand toward Junior, who was doing his best to overturn the walking chair, "but you can't bluff me. You're no more pleased to hear of Dicky rushing a girl around to places than any other woman would be, but I suppose you'll be chattered up in little pieces before you admit it."

"How this youngster does grow! He must be nearly a year old, isn't he?"

"He'll have his first birthday next Sunday," I said proudly.

Teacher Wage Drive Wrong; Should Stress Worth: Rugh

BERKELEY, July 1.—Teachers are conducting their campaign for higher wages from the wrong point of view, according to Professor Charles E. Rugh of the University of California, in addressing the closing session of the annual convention of the California High School Teachers' Association here today. Rugh emphatically declared that the appeal should be made on the strength of valuable service to the community in citizenship and character building rather than by statistical comparison with the wages made by carpenters, machinists and other skilled tradesmen.

Rugh's address followed that of H. Rogers, executive superintendent of schools of Oakland who declared that the "sumo of teacher study are doing up" and that of G. W. Thorne of the Oakland Technical High School who presented a large number of statistical figures which were promptly refuted by Professor Rugh.

"The economic status of the school teacher is not and never will be the same as that of the plumber, painter or tradesman and comparison of the wage received by teachers are not legitimate arguments," Rugh said.

"Primarily a teacher of course in the wage scale for teachers as I have pointed out, but it should be a comparison with the value of the service rendered to the community," he continued. "The teachers are a national problem. All of the trading categories for higher wages that I have followed the argument which has been given on the most attention is that teachers are not receiving as much money as bricklayers."

"That is the wrong point of view. Educational campaigns should be waged to show the community the value of the teachers' work in training the minds of young children to be good citizens."

"It is the wrong point of view," Rugh said, "unless the work is made attractive by the payment of a professional wage. Teachers of professional which situation in turn it will be shown as of inestimable effect to the community."

THOMPSON OF ALAMEDA IS ELECTED PRESIDENT. Those present here, I believe, a more effective campaign could be conducted.

Rugh opposed all forms of teachers' unions with or without affiliation with the American Federation of Labor. Officers were elected at the session as follows: President, George C. Thompson of Alameda High; directors, C. H. Rogers, Oakland High School, H. Rogers, Corvallis, O. A. Bond, Santa Cruz, William H. Heyman, Walnut Hills High School of Hollywood.

Supervisors Name Charities Board

The board of supervisors today appointed three members at large of the newly created Alameda Welfare Council which is to have supervision of all public charity. This council was presented and outlined at a conference between the State Board of Charities and Correction and supervisors John F. Mulligan when it was stated that one of the three members at large should be a representative of the board of supervisors. Those appointed today were: Supervisor Theodore J. Smith of Berkeley, H. Rogers, Corvallis, O. A. Bond, Santa Cruz, William H. Heyman, Walnut Hills High School of Hollywood.

Utah Raises Carfare From 6 to 7 Cents

SALT LAKE CITY, July 1.—The public utilities commission of Utah has issued an order effective on July 1, 1920, increasing the cash fare on street cars from 6 to 7 cents.

Madsack Held On Bad Check Charge

Charged with passing fictitious checks Herman Madsack, 15, was held to answer to the superior court for trial this morning by Police Judge Mortimer Smith who fixed bail at $2000. The complaining witness was M. Attell, 607 Washington street, who alleged that he had been victimized by the defendant to the extent of $22.

Are you still washing clothes as your grandmother did?

UP at daybreak—rubbing, rubbing, for hours, over the wash tubs—

Standing beside the hot stove, turning and lifting the heavy steaming garments in the boiler—filling the room with clouds of steam—

That was the way grandmother washed—not because she wanted to—but because she had to. No better way had ever been found.

Now a better way has been found—a way that saves all this labor, all this wear on the clothes.

The modern way of washing—You soak the clothes clean

Rinso, the wonderful new form of soap—ingrained—makes this new way of washing possible.

The fine granules are so rich in cleansing value, they loosen every particle of dirt as the clothes are soaking overnight. In the morning you rinse them and only the very soiled spots, like the edges of collars and cuffs, will need a light rubbing—just between your hands, in the Rinso suds.

You do not boil the clothes, or give them any real rubbing. You use no cake soap or "washing powder." And one package of Rinso does your whole week's washing.

Makes clothes last twice as long

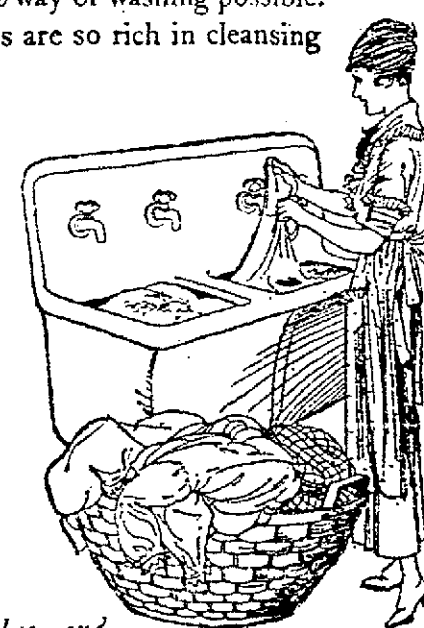

It is rubbing on the washboard that wears out your clothes quickly—it is harsh "washing powders" that make fabrics "fall apart"—that destroy colors.

Rinso loosens all the dirt while the clothes soak and it is so pure that your clothes are as safe in the Rinso suds as in pure water alone.

And Rinso cleans as perfectly in cold water as in warm!

Next time do your washing the modern way—the wonderful Rinso way. Soak your clothes clean—instead of the old rubbing and boiling way.

Order Rinso from your grocer today—and follow the easy directions on the package. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass. (Makers of Lux).

Soak the clothes and rinse—that's all!

*How wrong
they are!*

Some men still think that $25 will not buy a good sound suit of clothes

Here's where we go to bat with Old Man Habit!

Just because you've seen prices climb up month after month after month—until they finally tumbled—don't take it for granted that they've tumbled far enough.

The moment you feel satisfied with prices "specially reduced" to $40, $50 or $60—they'll not come down a dollar lower! The only way to bring them back where they belong is—shake the High Price Habit.

Don't listen to high prices---

Don't think high prices---

Don't talk high prices---

Get the high price habit clean-out-of-your system!

Just say to yourself—"perhaps I CAN buy a good suit of clothes for $25, $30 or $35. At least I'll investigate!" Then give us half a chance to prove it!

Inspect a few of our 3000 suits priced at $25, note our five commonsense business principles learn about our $10,000,000 guarantee of satisfaction and you'll not be surprised at the following figures:

In Our Oakland Store Alone

On Monday we sold 19 suits at $25
On Tuesday we sold 16 suits at $25
On Wednesday we sold 21 suits at $25
On Thursday we sold 31 suits at $25
On Friday we sold 22 suits at $25
On Saturday we sold 43 suits at $25 or a total of 152 suits at $25 in one week!

(not to mention the thousands of suits sold at $20, $30 and $35)

Figures compiled from last week---June 14 to 19.

And every one of those $25 suits was all-wool, carefully tailored, cleverly styled and backed by our $10,000,000 guarantee. The 152 men who bought them will be thoroughly, entirely SATISFIED.

TRADE UPSTAIRS & SAVE $10

That's Our Slogan, but $15 to $20 Is Usually Your Saving!

For a long time they've been telling you that you must pay MORE---pay MORE---pay MORE---to get a suit of clothes worth having. And maybe you've believed 'em. Now we say---pay LESS---and it ought to be a good lot EASIER to believe!

Have they shown you honest reasons for their sky-high prices? Have they alibid their profits to your satisfaction? No---you know it!

Now we ask you frankly to READ the five open-faced, commonsense REASONS for our LOW PRICES. Read them twice. Let them jolt your mind out of the High-Price-Habit. Let them prove to you the Why of our guaranteed SAVINGS. Then remember---hundreds and thousands of men all over the country have found out just the things we're telling you! Will you be fair enough to yourself and your bank account to INVESTIGATE---to SEE what $25, $30 or $35 will buy in a suit of guaranteed F. & C. clothes!

BIGGER VALUES ARE--

1. A coast-to-coast chain of UPSTAIRS stores.
2. We save $497,678.00 yearly in rent.
3. We have our own big wholesale tailor shops.
4. Plain stores--no mahogany fixtures.
5. Cash business--no credit losses.

TRIBUNE FILMS
SNAPPING SCENES
AT CONVENTION

The TRIBUNE-T and D. cameraman obtained some fine views at the Democratic convention, both inside and out, and these pictures are already being shown each day at the T. and D. theater.

John F. Kennedy, vice-chairman, is also shown introducing Chairman Cummings, also many other interesting close-ups of the important delegates are pictured.

Classmates See Wedding Of Friend

Pink sweet peas and gladiolas, artistically arranged by the home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Horstman at 1414 Virginia street, Berkeley, furnished the background for the marriage last evening of Miss Edith C. Horstman and Robert Lockhart, University of California graduates and Sigma Phi fraternity men. The service was held at 8:30 o'clock by Rev. H. Fox of St. Mark's church, San Francisco. In the presence of one hundred friends and relatives. Many of the guests comprised the college class since the bride is a member of the class of '19 and one of the popular members of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

Miss Carolyn Stelling, of San Francisco, was maid of honor and carried the bride's train. The bridesmaids included Misses Mabel Lockhart, sister of the bridegroom, in yellow tulle; Vera Chatfield, in orchid; Alice Verne, in blue; and Bethany Wessberg, in green. All of the brides were of tulle in the pastel shades and all carried shower bouquets of Ophelia roses.

William Horstman, brother of the bride, was best man.

A buffet supper was served following the reception and the bride's table adorned with a huge center basket of varied hued spring blossoms and maidenhair.

Upon their return from their wedding trip north, the couple will reside in Woodland.

The tennis enthusiasts of Oakland Post No. 5 of the American Legion are being assembled this week into a fast aggregation of racquet wields for the first time since the Golden Gate courts in San Francisco on Sunday, July 11, for a special American Legion tournament to be held on that day.

Data regarding the tournament, which is to be a handicap singles, has been received by Secretary George E. Price of Oakland Post, and who has issued an appeal to the post tennis stars to line up for the approaching tourney, for which entries will be received as late as Thursday, July 8.

According to the information given Price, the matches will be open to all of the Legion posts of Alameda, San Francisco, Marin, San Mateo, Contra Costa and Solano counties.

After winning their third straight victory last Sunday, members of the baseball aggregation of Oakland Post No. 5 of the American Legion are making arrangements for an out-of-town contest for the coming week-end, and expects to hook up with one of the last valley nines Sunday afternoon. Manager W. T. Hopkins is now dickering with some of the valley managers.

Last Sunday's game, the fastest yet played by the Oakland Legion losers, went to ten innings on the Bay View grounds, the Legionnaires coming out on the right end of a 4-3 score against the Defenders. The matches will be open to all of the Legion posts of Alameda, San Francisco, Marin, San Mateo, Contra Costa and Solano counties.

Tonight the Oakland Post baseball stars will be feted for their showing during the last month on the diamond at a banquet to be given by the members of the Women's Auxiliary of the post. During the coming months, according to arrangements being made by Manager Hopkins, the post team will do some traveling up and down the valley belt.

Abandoning the old meeting place

In the north hall of the Municipal Auditorium, where the post has assembled for many months, Oakland Post No. 5 of the American Legion will hold its membership meetings hereafter in Moose hall, Twelfth and Clay streets. The first gathering in the new assembly room will be held next Tuesday, July 6.

Moose Hall has been donated to the use of the Legion members through the kindness of the board of directors and members of Oakland Lodge, and the offer was formally accepted at the last meeting of the Oakland Post on Tuesday evening June 15.

At next Tuesday night's meeting the membership of the post will be called on to nominate delegates to the state convention of the Legion, to be held in San Diego August 23. Notices giving the change of meeting place and calling upon the membership to attend in force for the nominations have been sent out by Commander Captain W. J. Petersen and Adjutant George E. Price.

Way back in the '90's, when Heeseman's first started their store, the Shoe Department concession was given to our Mr. Quinn—with the understanding that transactions were to be carried on under the name of Heeseman's.

When Roos Bros. succeeded Heeseman's, the same arrangement remained in force through the contract with Quinn & Broder.

In short—men who bought shoes at Heeseman's or Roos Bros. were buying them of Quinn & Broder, but the terms of the lease did not permit us to tell them so.

THAT ARRANGEMENT CAME TO AN END LAST NIGHT!

From today on, there will be but one place in Oakland to buy WALK-OVER, HURLEY and NAP-A-TAN shoes—and that will be in our store—1305 Washington Street.

The stock formerly at the Roos Bros. store is now here. It's a large stock—larger than we have space for—and MUST BE SOLD QUICKLY!

There is no reason for underpricing such well-known high grade shoes, except the necessity for space!

MO. HENRY Story a day

The Detective Doctor

Copyright, 1920, by Doubleday, Page & Co., published by special arrangement with the Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

I was walking in Central Park with Avery Knight, the great New York burglar, highwayman and murderer. "But my dear Knight," said I, "it sounds incredible. You have undoubtedly performed some of the most wonderful feats in your profession known to modern crime. You have committed some marvelous deeds under the very noses of the police—you have boldly entered the homes of millionaires and held them up with an empty gun while you made free with their silver and jewels; you have snatched citizens in the glare of Broadway's electric lights; you have killed and robbed with such openness and absolute impunity—but when you boast that within forty-eight hours after committing a murder you can run down and actually bring me face to face with the detective assigned to apprehend you, I must beg leave to express my doubts. I am sure you are in New York."

Avery Knight smiled indulgently. "You pique my professional pride, doctor," he said in a nettled tone. "I will convince you."

About twelve miles in advance of us a prosperous-looking citizen was rounding a clump of bushes where the walk curved. Knight suddenly drew a revolver and shot the man in the back. His victim fell and lay without moving.

The great murderer went up to him leisurely and took from his clothes his money, watch and a valuable ring and cravat pin. He then rejoined me, smiling calmly, and we continued our walk.

Ten steps and we met a policeman running toward the spot where the shot had been fired. Avery Knight stopped him.

"I have just killed a man," he announced, seriously, "and robbed him of his possessions."

"What you have done," I said, argumentatively, as Knight and I walked on, "was easy. But when you come to the task of hunting down the detective that has sent upon your trail you will find that you have undertaken a difficult feat."

"Perhaps so," said Knight, lightly. "I will admit that my success depends in a degree upon the sort of man they send after me. I should be an ordinary plain-clothes man I might fail to gain a sight of him. If they honor me by giving the case to some one of their celebrated sleuths I do not fail to match my cunning and powers of intuition against his."

On that point Avery Knight entered my office with a satisfied look on his keen countenance.

"He goes the mysterious murder," I asked.

"As usual," said Knight, smilingly, "I have put in the morning at the police station and at the request of the chief of detectives I have been assigned to the case of a card case of mine containing cards with my name and address was found near the body. They have three witnesses who saw the shooting and gave a description of the case. The case has been placed in the hands of Shamrock Jones, the famous detective. He left headquarters at 11:30 on the assignment, waited at my address until two, thinking he might call there."

I laughed, tauntingly.

"You will never see Jones," I continued, "until this murder has been forgotten, two or three weeks from now. He had better enjoy the three hours and a half that you waited he has got out of your ken. He is after you on true induction of bodies now."

"Doctor," said Knight, "the induction is what the detectives use. My process is more modern. I call it the record your city holds of something like a dozen homicides without a subsequent meeting of the perpetrator and the sleuth in charge of the case. I will undertake to break that record. Tomorrow I will take you to Shamrock Jones—I will unmask him before you and prove to you that it is not an impossibility for an officer of the law and a man-slayer to stand face to face in your city."

"Do it," said I, "and you'll have the sincere thanks of the Police Department."

On the next day Knight called for me in a cab.

"I've been on one or two false scents, doctor," he admitted. "I know something of detective methods, and I followed out a few of them, expecting to find Jones at the other end. The pistol being a .45-caliber, I thought surely I would find him at work on the case in the morning."

Then, again, I looked for the detective at the Columbia University, as the man's being shot in the back naturally suggested hazing. But I could find no trace of him.

"Not by ordinary methods," said Knight. "I might walk up and down Broadway for a month, I think, without finding him. But you have aroused my pride, doctor, and if I fail to show you Shamrock Jones this day, you will I will never kill or rob in your city again."

"Nonsense, man," I replied. "When our paths cross, our houses and our money will be the only things of value left to us. I will be a murderer, expect to come in contact with the detective that is looking for me."

Avery Knight sat lost in thought for a while. At length he looked up.

"Doc," said he, "I have it. Put on your hat, and come with me. In half an hour I guarantee that you shall stand in the presence of Shamrock Jones."

I entered a cab with Avery Knight. I did not hear his instructions to the driver, but the vehicle set out at a smart pace up Broadway, turning at the corner of Fifth avenue, and proceeding northward again. It was with a rapidly beating heart that I accompanied this wonderful and gifted assassin, whose analytical genius and superb self-confidence had prompted him to make me the tremendous promise of bringing me into the presence of a murderer and the New York detective in pursuit of him simultaneously. Even yet I could not believe it possible.

"Are you sure that you are not being led into some trap?" I asked.

"Suppose that your clew, whatever it is, should bring you only into the presence of the Commissioner of Police and a couple of doc-a-cops?"

"My dear doctor," said Knight, a little stiffly. "I would remind you that I am no gambler."

"But I do not think you will find Jones," I said. "The cab stopped before one of the handsomest residences on the avenue. Waiting in a red car in front of the house was a man with long red whiskers, with a detective's badge showing on the lapel of his coat. Now and then the man would remove his whiskers to wipe his face, and then I would recognize at once the well-known features of the great New York detective Jones was keeping a sharp watch upon the doors and windows of the house."

"Well, doctor," said Knight, unable to repress a note of triumph in his voice, "have you seen?"

"It is wonderful—wonderful!" I could not help exclaiming, as our cab started on its return trip. "But how did you do it?"

"Induction," doctor," interrupted the great murderer. "The inductive theory is what the detectives use. My process is more modern. I call it the salutatory theory. Without bothering with the tedious mental phenomena necessary to the solution of a mystery from slight clues, I reach at once to a conclusion. I will explain to you the method I employed in this case.

In the first place, I argued that as the crime was committed in New York City in broad daylight, in a public place and under peculiarly atrocious circumstances, and that as the

"I have just killed a man," he announced seriously, "and robbed him of his possessions."

"Perhaps so," I replied doggedly. "But if Big Bill Devlin, Knight, with a smile. 'I've heard that several times. It's too late now. I will proceed.'"

If homicides in New York went undiscovered, I reasoned, although the best detective talent was employed to ferret them out, it must be true that the detective went about their work in the wrong way. And now, in the wrong way, but exactly opposite from the right way. That was my clew.

"I slew a man in Central Park. Now let me describe myself to you. I am tall, with a black beard, and I hate publicity. I have no money, and I do not like outmeal, and it is the one ambition of my life to die rich. I am of a cold and heartless disposition. I do not care for my fellow men and I never give a cent to beggars or charity."

"Now, my dear doctor, that is the true description of myself, the man whom that shrewd detective was to hunt down. You who are familiar with the history of crime in New York of late should be able to foretell the result. When I promised you to exhibit to you my method, I meant to show you a man who was set upon me, you laughed at me because you said that detectives and murderers never met in New York. I have demonstrated to you that the theory is possible."

"But how did you do it?" I asked again.

"It was very simple," replied the distinguished murderer. "I assumed that the detective would go exactly opposite to the clues he had. I have given you a description of myself. Therefore, he must necessarily set to work and trail a short man with a white beard who likes to be in the papers, who is every wealthy, is fond of outmeal, wants to die rich and is of a generous and kind disposition. When this clue reached the mind, he hesitates no longer. I conveyed you at once to the spot where Shamrock Jones was pining for an Andrew Carnegie residence."

"Knight," said I, "you're a wonder. If there was no danger of your reforming, what a roundsman you'd make for the New York Tribune!"

Oath By Buddha Is Taken By Attorney
BUENOS AIRES, July 1.—(Largest) mission to swear by Buddha instead of God and the Holy Apostles was granted by the Superior Court of Cordoba the other day to a young law student of agnostic belief when he took oath of membership in the Argentine bar. He sought first to take the oath "by my country and my honor," but the court informed him that he would be obliged to take a "religious oath."

The student, it is related, thereupon went to a library and began a profound study of the world's religions, on which he spent several days. He then returned to the court and informed the learned judges he had found that the Buddhist religion was "the most moral and most complete" and asked permission to take oath upon it. The judges consulted many tomes of Argentine law and decided there was nothing to exclude him from taking such an oath.

Jamaica Planters Fast Gain Wealth
KINGSTON, Jamaica, July 1.—There has never been so much money in Jamaica as now. The sugar and banana planters are fast becoming wealthy and if the present wave of prosperity continues for a few months more they will have at least a dozen millionaires.

Before the war sugar fetched only $20 per ton; today it is bringing $60 per ton in the English market. The island's inhabitants are experiencing great difficulty in getting adequate supplies and it is only through the action of the food controller that 5 per cent of the output is kept for home consumption. The prosperity of sugar planters has led to large sums being invested in the purchase of the most up-to-date machinery for the manufacture of sugar. Another central factory costing $1,500,000 will shortly be erected in the eastern portion of the island.

Osteopaths Score Medical Association
CHICAGO, July 1.—Dr. William E. Waldo of Seattle has been elected president of the American Osteopathic Association.

A resolution was adopted urging Congress to reject a bill proposing establishment of an executive department of public health. The bill, the resolution said, "is sponsored by the political-medical machine known as the American Medical Association, with the idea of dominating the proposed department and imposing upon the country a system of state medicine."

The resolution also asked passage of a bill by Senator Dillingham admitting osteopathic physicians to examination for commissions in the medical branch of the army.

ALAMEDA COUNTY

Official census have been received regarding the population of ten Alameda county cities and they show a result in growth that is highly satisfactory. The government count of population is as follows:

Oakland	216,364
Berkeley	50,880
Alameda	28,806
San Leandro	5,706
Piedmont	1,282
Hayward	3,487
Emeryville	2,330
Albany	2,161
Livermore	1,916
Pleasanton	991
Rural territory	21,851
Total	311,127

While disclaiming any desire to quarrel with the census enumerators, it is inevitable that some persons are omitted in any census count and it is easy to grant that 5,000 persons were not counted in the last federal census. That many were not at home when the census man called, were in homes missed by the enumerator or failed to make any return. It is a conservative claim, then, if we say that Alameda county has 350,000 people of census age.

Alameda county population has therefore increased 40 percent within the last ten years. This is a sound basis for growth. The increase in business and industry, in productive property and annual income earned has been much greater.

This is not a large county as to area and the urban population of 330,000 is contiguous, making, if imaginary political boundaries are ignored, one city. It is a community of great strength to advance and perform an important role in the State and nation. It is a community of varied resources and activities, possessing all the qualities and signs of permanence. In the last three years it has been galloping force for still further notable expansion.

And with all its splendid possessions taken account of by census enumerators, there are other riches which are an important part in the life of every large community—the facilities for education, recreation and amusement of the people; for the conservation of the physical and spiritual health and the making of clean, efficient citizenship. Within the incorporated municipal areas there are beautiful lakes and parks, fine scenic highways, wooded slopes and canyons, mountain trails and stately hills, the largest university in the United States, the largest women's college west of the Mississippi river and other important institutions of learning.

Above all there is splendid civic consciousness,
a people that realizes its destiny and is ready to give service for community advancement, that has an abiding faith in the future and is impatient with the forces of obstruction.

Altogether Alameda county is a good and worthy subject of conversation. It is deserving of introduction to the outside world by every proper means. It compares favorably with any other community in the country. It invites inspection. It is worth seeing. It has much to offer to business, to commerce to industry and to folks.

At the recent conference of the Allied premiers
at Hythe an agreement was presented by the Allied financial experts on German indemnity and approved by the premiers. This agreement meets the demand of Germany for specific terms in the matter of reparations.

The indemnity to be exacted is $20,000,000,000
or 120 billion German marks on the pre-war basis
of exchange. Payments are to extend over a period of thirty-seven years and the annual instalment shall not fall below $750,000,000. It may be increased if Germany is able to pay a larger instalment.

An addition must be made to the peace treaty
covering this agreement on indemnities and Germany's acceptance of the Allied terms is required.
When the joint conference is held the German representatives probably will haggle and try to beat down the price. It is therefore necessary for the Allied powers to stand together and insist

that the spirit of the preliminary clauses in the treaty of Versailles be strictly adhered to.

The amount agreed upon by the Allies is not as large as was to be expected. But it has resulted from a careful and fair valuation by the financial experts as to what Germany will be able to pay without causing distress. While the United States has not ratified the peace treaty, due to differences over the League of Nations covenant, the American government ought to support in every proper manner the Allied demand. Reparations are a vital condition of the peace agreement. No way to escape them should be left to Germany.

GOVERNMENT SHOULD ALSO WORK.

If the following quotation from a recent statement by Mr. William A. Law, president of a national bank in Philadelphia, seems unduly long, it is because it is one of the most direct and precise statements concerning one phase of present conditions that has come to the notice of THE TRIBUNE. Its truth is apparent. It refers to experiences in the Philadelphia-New York area, but which are painfully familiar in every part of the country. Mr. Law writes:

"It was never more difficult to do business than it is today. The mail service between Philadelphia and New York is so unreliable that special delivery of mail in the afternoon is not sure of getting the items into the clearing house the next morning. This seems incredible for the distance is only ninety miles and two splendidly equipped railroads furnish as fine and expeditious train service as anywhere in the world. In order to save a full day's interest charge in the collection of an enormous volume of exchange, therefore, some of the large Philadelphia banks now send over these checks every day by special messengers.
That this should be necessary in a highly developed railroad territory would be ludicrous were it not for the light it throws upon the low efficiency of the postal service in a densely populated area. It may be doubted if any similarly located cities produce more valuable mail than is carried between Philadelphia and New York 365 days in the year. Why, then, should it be necessary for the banks to undertake the work that the Government is paid to do in a territory of enormous business activity? The incident is suggestive of the things which are bearing heavily upon the people at the time when the greatest need exists for the quickest transmission of intelligence and business mail between the great centers of trade activity. Day to day operations show that it takes from thirty-six to forty-five hours to deliver Philadelphia mail in suburban towns around New York, while distribution within New York city limits is sometimes almost as slow."

The difficulties and expenses of doing business are indeed many and great. All are not chargeable directly to the government. As an Oakland banker pointed out in its monthly review of conditions, a large portion of the increase in the cost of business is due to higher rates for credit and the delays in the transportation of commodities which have become the basis of new credit. These and other influences which add to the cost of living are difficult to control.

But there are influences which can and should be attacked. Inefficiency in government agencies is one of them; not because inefficiency is any more injurious under government than under private auspices, but it is susceptible to more speedy remedy.

Government officials attempt to explain the present living costs in several ways, but the main requirement is more work, applied more effectively. Recognition of this fact demands that the government as well as the individual go to work and help produce. If, for instance, the postal administration will produce more service, function more effectively, it will set a good example.

Eight persons have been indicted by a federal grand jury in connection with the escape of the draft evader, Grover Bergdoll. They include his three brothers and his mother, all of whom are apparently guilty of conspiracy or at least criminal knowledge in connection with the escape. But there are no indictments for the adjutant-general of the army who authorized the draft dodger's transfer from the prison to look for buried treasure or the Bergdoll attorneys who succeeded in convincing the military authorities that this was to be an innocent adventure.

THE VICTORY MEDAL.

Had the Victory Medal been presented on his discharge from the service to each member of the armed forces of the United States, instead of some thirteen months after the signing of the armistice, the medal would have been received with much more enthusiasm than it will be today. The belated decision of the War and Navy Departments to give Victory Medals to the more than four millions of Americans who served in the army and navy during the war with Germany is not an announcement that will thrill many of those who will receive them. Most of these millions of ex-services men have discarded many months ago the uniform of Uncle Sam. The "welcome-home" days are over, the time when the medal could be worn with the joy and pride of a new acquisition. Nor does the routine of peace-time duties give much opportunity for the wearing of the Victory Medal, except on special occasions, when the uniform is again brought out for a few hours from the attic recesses or the obscure recesses of the storeroom.

Yet, in coming as it is, the Victory Medal is nevertheless welcome. The value placed upon it will increase as the years roll on and the present generation of young men become the elders of the nation. It may be a hundred years before the country is again stirred by war's alarms, and certainly no future war is likely to have a greater glamor than that which attaches to the participation across the Atlantic in the gigantic effort that humbled the might of the Hohenzollerns. The boys that are now growing up will probably never see a war of the magnitude of the World War of 1914-1918. The Victory Medal, though extremely received now, is likely to grow more and more in value. Of little intrinsic value, it nevertheless has a tremendous significance for the things it represents.
Those who receive it will not lightly forget those things, nor the spirit of national service of which it will stand as a lasting symbol.—Boston Transcript.

INDemnITY FIXED.

At the recent conference of the Allied premiers
at Hythe an agreement was presented by the Allied financial experts on German indemnity and approved by the premiers. This agreement meets
the demand of Germany for specific terms in the matter of reparations.

The indemnity to be exacted is $20,000,000,000
or 120 billion German marks on the pre-war basis
of exchange. Payments are to extend over a period of thirty-seven years and the annual instalment shall not fall below $750,000,000. It may be increased if Germany is able to pay a larger instalment.

An addition must be made to the peace treaty
covering this agreement on indemnities and Germany's acceptance of the Allied terms is required.
When the joint conference is held the German
representatives probably will haggle and try to beat down the price. It is therefore necessary

for the Allied powers to stand together and insist
that the spirit of the preliminary clauses in the treaty of Versailles be strictly adhered to.

NOTES and COMMENT

Judge Dooling cautioning law officers not to break the law is something unusual in jurisprudence.
It occurred in a case where a dry sleuth invaded private premises without a search warrant. It seems to be difficult to get the idea across that an officer invested with the duty of enforcing the law must amendment must proceed in the same manner that is followed in enforcing any other law.

Senator Reed of Missouri must feel very much flattened out, if the steam roller is of the weight that appears from the accounts. The steam roller idea has heretofore been cited against Republican methods, but this example goes any Republican record something more than one better.

San Leandro Reporter extends a general invitation: "We invite the citizens of the surrounding country to come to our town to do their shopping, as a place of residence, because we know they will be delighted with its surroundings, with its people, with its laws and its clean streets, delighted with its school privileges and with its good moral climate that exists and is largely instilled by the people. You will also find a cheap place in which to live."

Governor Lowden is not to stand for re-election as governor of Illinois. He doesn't believe in second terms. In several respects Governor Lowden is evincing traits of a pretty good scout. One other is that he has shown himself to be such a good loser.

Former Chairman McCombs of the National Democratic committee has a visible crouch against the national administration. In declaring that President Wilson is the first auto-crat of the United States he illustrates his peeve. The question of interest in this connection is, What happened?

Statistic item from the Sacramento Union: "In Los Angeles county outside of the city (although we had not supposed there was any such thing) 28 per cent of the births during the last five years have been of Japanese. And it is said that the Japanese are not feeling very well either."

The ticket taker who came all the way from Kansas City to get a job at the convention, and then was caught stealing admission tickets, was at unnecessary trouble. It would seem that such small criminality as that could be pulled off nearer home, and railroad fares saved.

The director of the census is on this coast, as so many Federal officials from Washington are. If he has any sense, he will use the opportunity to receive an ovation, but he might ease up the situation if he has an available explanation of the discrepancy between the census figures of that city's population and those put forth by the boomers.

prise: "Grain may be a little burned crop of wheat is as fresh and sweet as early morning poppies by the

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

At the last meeting of the Board of Supervisors $5000 was voted to pay the expenses of two assistant farm advisors, to be furnished the farm bureau by the University of California. There are a number of active campaigns to be taken up by the various centers throughout the county. Thirteen centers will take up pest control, twelve centers will have exhibits at the county fair, nine centers will have soil and fertilizer demonstrations, good roads work will occupy the attention of seven, campaigns of septic tanks in rural districts will be taken up by six,
study of tillage methods by five,
poultry work by five and intensive dairying by five.—Cloverdale Reveller.

The Board of Supervisors has passed two ordinances relating to sanitarians in Santa Clara county. One provided that no sanitation may be established within 500 feet of school houses. The other provides that application to locate a sanitarium must be made to the Board of Supervisors. The first will block the establishment of the tubercular sanitarium by San Francisco at Nip-pon Mura, on account of the location of Austin school. The second will protect the people against the location of such institutions in their midst, for it will give them opportunity to appear before the supervisors and protest.—Los Gatos News.

Application has been made for the dissolution of the Stephens Agricultural and Live Stock Company. The property involves approximately $6000 acres of land and thousands of sheep and cattle. The company was organized by the late George D.
Stephens, whose death occurred in 1901. The purpose was to conserve the property for his heirs. The youngest has now come to majority and the purpose of the company having been realized, the dissolution is asked. The valuation of the property is not less than $600,000.—

R. J. Nelson and thirteen other members of the crew of the steam schooner Cockapont, which was the United States District Court for salvage. They claim that the steam valued at $1,750,000, carrying a cargo valued at $2,000,000, was in distress on May 25 and wrecked off the coast of the City of Omaha was 13.1

apont went to her rescue and towed her to San Pedro. The petitioners ask the court to reward them for the

THE REPORT OF THE RESOLUTIONS COMMITTEE IS NOW IN ORDER

OUR EXPORT TRADE

Measures of Value and Quantity Compared and It Is Shown That actual Increase Has Been But Little Faster Than Before the War.

By DR. FRANK M. SURFACE.
WASHINGTON, July 1.—Many articles have been written on the export trade since the beginning of the war. Almost without exception, these conclusions are based on the money value of the products exported.
This arises from the fact that the Department of Commerce reports its totals in money value only.
For a large number of commodities
no reports on actual quantity is ever made. Further, where quantity is reported, it is in terms of units
such as tons, bushels, gallons, pounds and feet that it requires a very large amount of work and technical knowledge to convert them to a common unit of weight.

Under ordinary conditions where the fluctuations in prices are relatively slight, the money value gives a very good comparison of foreign trade activities. But under the present conditions where prices are from 50 to 200 per cent higher than they were five years ago, a comparison of values gives no indication whether we are exporting more or less goods than we were three or five years ago.

The following figures on the money value of our exports for the three pre-war years and for each of the last five fiscal years show that in value our exports last year were 2.6 per cent greater than the pre-war average.

Year	Total Value of Pre-war	Per Cent
1911-12 to 1913-14	$2,209,503,464	100.0
1914-15	2,716,175,467	122.9
1915-16	4,275,177,379	193.7
1916-17	6,227,164,050	281.8
1917-18	5,838,655,557	264.3
1918-19	7,074,011,529	320.1

Are we really exporting a significantly larger quantity of goods than formerly, or is this increase mainly due to the higher cost per unit?
To answer this question we have taken some forty of the more important commodities, converted the quantities into short tons and then compared the total amounts with the money value in the different years. The commodities chosen include all the important foodstuffs, cotton, wool, coal, iron, steel,
copper, metals, lumber, fertilizer, etc.
The results show that these commodities represent about one-half the money value of our total exports.

The following figures show the total tonnage and the total value of the commodities exported each year, as well as the relative figures for each year, taking the pre-war average as 100.

Year	Total Tonnage	Per Cent	Total Value of Pre-war	Per Cent
1911-12 to 1913-14	35,764,783	100.0	$1,247,136,545	100.0
1914-15	41,933,987	117.3	1,494,782,543	120.6
1915-16	46,750,174	130.6	1,618,262,641	130.5
1916-17	45,582,566	127.5	2,355,056,991	190.4
1917-18	45,848,356	128.2	2,802,637,328	225.5
1918-19	46,565,857	130.2	3,746,426,397	300.3

It will be noted that the total value of these commodities increases rather regularly from $1,247,000,000 in the pre-war years to $3,746,000,000 in the last fiscal year. This is an increase in value of 200 per cent.
The tonnage figures, however, show
35,765,000 tons in the pre-war years and only 45,568,000 tons in 1918-19, an increase of only 20.1 per cent. It will further be noted that in 1918-19 we exported some 2,000,000 tons less than in 1915-16, yet the value of the smaller quantity was nearly $1,400,000,000 greater.

The real index of the prosperity of the country lies in the volume of production. Insofar as the increase in exports is taken as an index of increased production, there is grave danger that we may fool ourselves because of the increased costs.

ANOTHER VIEW.
To the Editor of The Tribune:
At this time of year when municipal employees as well as teachers are asking and obtaining raises, it is brought to our minds whether some are not asking too much of the taxpayer.

I refer to the teachers; they are receiving $150 per month for only nine months actual work; their working day with their pupils is only four and one-half hours for five days in the week, as they never work on Saturdays. They received a raise of $35 last year and are asking the same this year, which if granted will raise them out of all proportion to other civil employees, and they certainly have the snap of all the positions in the city in more than one.

I think their claim that they are required to have from two to four years' training before they earn compensation is decidedly offset by

YOUTH ADMITS HE ROBBED OVER SCORE OF HOMES

ALAMEDA, July 1.—Confessing to over twenty-five burglaries within the last month in the bay region, Charles Wells, 19, arrested with George Knight, 20, added to the long list of crimes he had already admitted to Acting Chief of Police George Daly, yesterday.

Wells, although unable to locate the numerous homes he claims to have entered during the past six weeks, says that about ten Oakland homes were robbed, three in Piedmont, eight in San Francisco, Wood in San Francisco, and five in this city. Knight has admitted implicity to two Alameda burglaries only, but according to Wells he was connected with nearly all those the latter admits having committed.

The pair were taken in custody Tuesday evening by Policemen Andrew Peterson and Louis Servante following the burglary of the home of Benjamin Jost, 2060 Encinal avenue and Walter Jenkins, 1212 Walnut street.

Other homes entered in Alameda were those of A. J. Coogan, Palmiro Court, J. H. Markley, 1519 Grand street and E. R. Josephson, 1216 Clinton avenue.

Eastbay Cities Will Hold Further Discussions on Plan for Consolidation

BERKELEY, July 1.—With the appointment of a committee of five representatives of Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley to canvass the outlying territory of Alameda county, first steps were taken at a meeting last night in the office of Mayor Louis Bartlett in the Berkeley City Hall to ascertain the sentiment of the entire county on a plan for the consolidation of the Eastbay communities. Opposition was expressed on the part of the Alameda and Berkeley representatives to consolidation with Oakland.

After almost three hours of discussion, in which all angles of the annexation and consolidation question were discussed, William J. Locke, city attorney of Alameda, brought the meeting to a close with the motion that a committee be named to arrange for a larger gathering at which representatives from all districts of the county will be invited to be present to participate in a general consideration of the question and to make plans for a permanent organization.

REPRESENTATIVES NAMED

On Locke's motion Mayor Bartlett was included as a member of the committee. Others named were William J. Locke, Alameda, chairman; Mayor John L. Davis and Jos. E. Caine, Chamber of Commerce, representing Oakland, and Frank Thatcher, president Berkeley Chamber of Commerce, representing the college city.

That Alameda and Berkeley might possibly look favorably upon a consolidation plan which will allow them to retain their own identities, but would not favor annexation to Oakland, was the message brought to the meeting by delegates from the two cities. A borough plan joining

MAYOR CAUTIONS BERKELEY FOLKS OF GRASS FIRES

BERKELEY, July 1.—With more than thirty grass fires menacing life and property in the last three days, Mayor Louis Bartlett has issued a warning to residents of Berkeley to prevent the loss of property in preventing blazes which may prove disastrous.

Within the last twenty-four hours ten runs to grass fires were made by the firemen. But for the efficiency of the fire department in preventing blazes which may prove disastrous.

DELIBERATION ADVISED

That no hasty steps need be taken in the matter of consolidation was the advice of Wilbur Walker, secretary of the Merchants' Exchange of Oakland, who declared that even should a charter be adopted immediately by the Eastbay community that it could not be ratified for two years more by the legislature.

Twenty years ago a committee of the Merchants' Exchange started an investigation of this subject," said Walker. "There are four members of that committee still living. Some years ago an election was called as a result of an agitation in West Berkeley. The result showed West Berkeley strong for consolidation with Oakland, East Berkeley against the plan and Oakland overwhelming in favor. Oakland will vote any time by three or four or five to one vote for a consolidated city and county. She will be glad to have Berkeley and Alameda join with her if they wish."

"The division existing on this side of the bay weakens us politically and socially. San Francisco stands together on any question while we east of the bay are divided. Our taxes are getting higher, our expenses still higher and the results obtained don't justify."

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The bid of $800,000 for the former German liner de Kink, made by the American Ship and Commerce Corporation was accepted today by the Shipping Board. The offer of $3,000,000 for the great liner Leviathan, made by the U. S. Mail Steamship Co., still is under consideration.

DE VALERA IS COMMENDED BY SINN FEINERS

DUBLIN, July 1.—The Sinn Fein Parliament has sent the following message to President De Valera, president of the Irish republic, who is now in the United States:

"Dail Eireann, assembled in full session Tuesday, unanimously reaffirms allegiance of the citizens of Ireland to your policy and expresses satisfaction with the work you have performed. The assembly relies with confidence upon the belief that the great American nation will accord recognition to the republic of Ireland, now in fact and in law established."

Sinn Fein leaders announced that courts of justice and equity for criminal jurisdiction will be established where they do not exist at present. A land commission will be appointed. It was said that the internal loan of $1,000,000 of the Sinn Fein has been oversubscribed a quarter of a million dollars.

ATTORNEYS FOR METSON ATTACK STATE AUTO LAW

indications of a vigorous battle for the freedom of Wilfred O. Metson, University of California student and son of Attorney W. H. Metson of San Francisco, appeared this morning when Attorneys Donahue and Hynes filed a demurrer with Judge L. S. Church attacking the constitutionality of the motor vehicle act and a motion to set aside the information on the ground that the evidence at the preliminary hearing did not show a probable cause for believing the defendant committed the offense. Metson was arraigned and pleaded not guilty.

Metson is charged with failing to render aid to a person injured by his machine. The accident occurred a number of weeks ago when Metson and four students were riding in his machine and ran down Emil Peterson and Miss Anna Johnson, killing the former and badly injuring the latter.

The demurrer attacking the constitutionality of the vehicle act mentions nearly a dozen alleged weak spots. Among these are the following:

That the subject matter of the act is not disclosed in the title, as required; that the act embraces more than one subject matter, combining the regulation of the operation of motor vehicles with the conduct of persons disconnected therewith; that it compels the defendant to be a witness against himself in case he is guilty; that if he committed no wrong it unlawfully restrains him of his liberty; that it does not bear equally on all persons; that more than one offense is charged; that the facts do not constitute a public offense and that the act does not express in its title the punishment provided by saying whether the offense is a felony or a misdemeanor.

Judge Church set Thursday, July 8, for argument on the demurrer and motion.

KOREA-JAPAN FIGHT AT SEOUL; SCORES SLAIN

SEOUL, Korea, June 11 (Correspondence of the Associated Press). Sporadic fighting has broken out on the northeast border between Korean bandits and Japanese troops. About twenty armed Koreans attempted to force their way into the garrison quarters at Koyodo on June 4, but were repulsed. Another larger force stormed the garrison on the night of the 6th, but were once again driven back. On the following morning Korean outlaws numbering about twenty clashed with a Japanese force at a point some 2000 metres north of Ansan. The Japanese pursued the Koreans when another group of Koreans occupying a tableland in the vicinity fired on the Japanese. They were driven off after about four hours of hard resistance, leaving twenty-four dead and a quantity of arms and ammunition. The Japanese casualties were sixty-two.

The garrison commander the same day issued an order which said:

"The present Korean outbreak made it inevitable for the Japanese to enter Korean territory since the rioters made their way into the Japanese garrison quarters."

MEETING DEBATES MERGER PROJECT

said the councilman, "but there is no use camouflaging our preference. Berkeley is jealous of her government and will never sacrifice her identity. Personally I cannot say whether I favor a consolidated county government, until a charter is framed. I doubt very much, however, if a charter can be framed which will satisfy Berkeley. In my own opinion the formation of a public utilities district for the entire Eastbay region would be the first real step toward consolidation. If that is successful consolidation will follow. However, I can see more quickly for a consolidated government taking in both sides of the bay, a greater San Francisco, than I would for any other form of consolidation."

BUSINESS VIEW ASSUMED. Former Mayor E. K. Taylor of Alameda declared that petty jealousies formed the biggest stumbling block which consolidation advocates must surmount.

"All these objections, these manifestations of jealousies on the part of the Eastbay communities, are too contemptible, too petty for business men to consider," he said. "Show me a business scattered in a dozen different places and I will show you a failure. The same thing applies to Alameda county—that is why our government on this side of the bay is an absolute failure. What influence has Alameda, for instance, in getting anything done? Other Eastbay communities worked with us for our mutual loss."

"When Secretary Daniels came Alameda didn't have a hotel to house him. Oakland took him in, furnished him, entertained him. Berkeley lent support. We are all one big community. Even if we never save a dollar, the prestige that we will have in a consolidated government will repay us many times over. Los Angeles and San Francisco now control the state legislature. Let Alameda county stand together and their voice will be felt in carrying this wild extravagance at the state capital. Personally I am not in favor of Alameda, merging in Oakland. That city would get the worst of the deal. The consolidated government, if adopted, should provide a borough of Alameda and of Berkeley, allow the present communities to preserve their autonomy. Why eleven assessors, eleven purchasing agents and a multitude of other officials?"

FIGURES ASKED. Mrs. A. Morris, manager of the Berkeley branch of the Oakland Bank of Savings and former president of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce, urged that an actuary be engaged to prepare figures to show the saving which would result from a consolidated government to be presented to a later meeting.

"Berkeley is jealous of the progress it has made," said Morris. "It would not like to be swallowed up in another community. We should be shown, however, in actual figures whether this consolidation will be beneficial for the county."

Sentiments against consolidation with Oakland backed up, he said, by some 600 Alamedans whom he has interviewed, were expressed by the members of the city of Alameda, who met what the city of Alameda will set out of a consolidated government and I'm for it," said Latham. "But be sure that you pick out your freeholders in advance and don't wait for volunteers. A few years ago the people of Alameda voted in favor of consolidating with San Francisco, but not with Oakland. The people of Alameda will have to be shown the benefits they will derive from any amalgamation plan."

E. C. Williams interjected a comment that the county would save $250,000 a year alone in purchasing through a central agent. City Attorney Locke of Alameda declared a borough system would prove the only practical solution of the problem. Speaking for Berkeley Mayor Bartlett said that he was still of an open mind on the question.

"There is no question that a great saving can be effected with the proper kind of consolidation," he said. "The borough form of government seems the only plan under which the various cities will be content to work. There will have to be left a great deal of self-government to each community in any plan that is presented. On this Berkeley and Alameda will undoubtedly have the same point of view. A central governing body to which may be left larger questions of public interest, such as public utilities, courts, buying of supplies and other things of that nature seems practical, however."

WORK LEFT TO COMMITTEE. On Locke's motion the time for calling the larger meeting to take place in all interests and all sections of the county was left to the committee named by Mayor Bartlett.

Present last night were the following representatives of the three Eastbay cities: Oakland—H. D. Weber, representing Mayor Davis; Joseph E. Caine, Chamber of Commerce; Wilber Walker, Merchants' Exchange; Leroy Goodrich, Rotary Club; E. W. Williams, Alameda County Tax Association.

Berkeley—Mayor Louis Bartlett, Councilman Charles D. Heywood; Frank Thatcher, president, Chamber of Commerce; Ira A. Morris, Oakland Bank of Savings, Berkeley branch.

Alameda—William J. Locke, city attorney; E. K. Taylor, former mayor; Councilman Al Latham.

What is Castoria. CASTORIA is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulence, Wind Colic and Diarrhea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep.

The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend. The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-Good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

THE AFTER-SMART of SHAVING IS ALLAYED BY SANTISEPTIC. Many men who would like to shave themselves, dread the after-smart caused by using the razor daily on a tender skin. To all such we recommend Santiseptic Lotion; it not only allays the smarting and soreness, but it acts as well as an antiseptic, protecting the face from infection. The sense of security from infection that you enjoy from the use of Santiseptic is especially reassuring. Santiseptic is so easily procured at most drug stores and toilet goods counters and costs but fifty cents.

PRICES PURSUE UNEVEN COURSE ON WALL STREET

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, July 1. — Prospects of another flurry to call money were reflected in the uneven trend of prices at the outset of the week's trading session. The market's initial advance of a few points was almost immediately followed by a reaction, and the closing was a net loss of 10 points.

Trading became lifeless in the last hour as call money's further rise to fourteen per cent. Prices were not materially affected, however, a few stocks reaching their highest levels of the session. The closing was firm. Sales approximated 25,000 shares.

The following quotations of prices of stocks on the New York Stock Exchange are from E. H. Campbell and Co., private wire members of the New York Stock Exchange, with offices in the State Street hotel, Twelfth and Franklin streets.

NAVY BASE BILL
PACIFIC VICTORY,
ROTARIANS TOLD

Confidence that the naval base will be established in Alameda was expressed today by Joseph E. Caine, managing director of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, when he spoke before the Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon in the Hotel Oakland. Caine spent many weeks in Washington in the fight to bring the base here.

In regard to the future he said: "With a full knowledge of the attitude of the navy department, the attitude of the Senate and the House, and with a knowledge of the many influences at work in congress, I can confidently say that the Pacific Coast achieved a great victory in bringing this matter to a head in the manner provided in the present naval bill. He explained that the decision to make further inquiry into the naval base sites on the Pacific Coast was actuated by a desire of the officials to prevent any mistake being made and that it was not an adverse action to the claims of Oakland. He said: "I am sure that in the long run the project will progress much more rapidly than if the other amendment, appropriating $1,000,000, had passed in the original form."

CHINA OFFERS TO PAY $45,000 FOR KILLING PASTOR

PEKING, June 26 (Delayed).—The cabinet today approved General Chang's proposal that the government offer the family of the Rev. W. A. Reimart $45,000 damages. A soldier confessed the murder of Reimart and was summarily executed. It is feared American will not accept money's reparation. Reimart, who for fifteen years was connected with the Reformed Church American Mission, was killed when the mission at Tachow was attacked by troops connected with Chang's forces on June 14.

DECOTO REFUSES
RACE FOR BENCH

District Attorney Ezra Decoto announced today that he will not be a candidate for superior judge in the coming elections. He said the position is one which no man can afford to scorn, and that in declining to accept it he was doing so for the sake of his friends who had urged him to make the race for the office. He was by no means failing to appreciate the honor sought to be conferred on him, but he was not prepared to undertake the race, he said, because he did not consider the present the proper time to enter the race, declaring he is perfectly satisfied with his present office, in which he said he had served only a comparatively short time.

Following the announcement of Superior Judge Everett J. Brown that he will retire at the close of his present term, which expires with the end of this year, Decoto was freely mentioned as a probable candidate, but he declined to say whether or not he would offer himself.

With Decoto out of the race there is only one more announced candidate than there are judgeships to fill. Presiding Judge T. W. Harris, Judge James G. Quinn and Judge E. C. Robinson are candidates to succeed themselves, while there are four vacancies. Police Judge George Samuels and Judge James J. Jerome have announced themselves as candidates.

Decoto said: "I am not a candidate for superior judge. I deeply appreciate the honor and responsibility that such an office carries, but at the present time I feel that I can best serve the people of this county by remaining in the office to which they have elected me."

NEPTUNE BEACH PROGRAM. A three-day program of amusements is planned for Independence day celebration at Neptune Beach, July 3, 4 and 5. The new Neptune Palace theater opens Saturday night with motion pictures, George Carpentier in "The Wonder Man."

MISHAP BLAMED FOR DEATHS BY AIRPLANE CRASH

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—Burned to death when the airplane from which they intended to observe the pro-Russian propaganda over the big convention crowds crashed into a high tension electric wire at the east end of the Marina at Market, hauled at 4:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the bodies of Aviator Daniel Lane, 25, 164 Jordan avenue; Paul Lane, 10, the aviator's cousin; and Herman L. Tucker, 30, 59 Macdonald street, are held in the morgue here today.

Leaving the flying field soon after 4 o'clock, carrying the boy and Tucker, who as a member of the "Lift the Russian Blockade" committee, was going to rain pamphlets on the crowds as they left the auditorium, Lane, formerly a lieutenant in the army, failed to clear the 10,000-volt wires. The airplane hurtled into a massive telegraph pole, which snapped off and the machine dropped to the wooden pier in a twisted mass of flames. The pier at once took fire.

RELATIVE GIVEN ALARM. Mrs. C. B. Lane of the Colonial Hotel, grandmother of the boy, an aunt of the pilot, witnessed the accident and telephoned the central emergency hospital and the fire department. Until the arrival of the firemen, the burning wires and of the fire department to quench the blaze the large crowd could not get within thirty feet of the charred victims.

Miss Lucy Brannan, head of the American Woman's emergency committee, who made a similar flight the day before, said that Lane almost hit the wire when he landed with her and another girl worker.

Mrs. Peggy Tucker, widow of Herman L. Tucker, on being notified at the Russian headquarters at 15 Larkin street of the accident, rushed and was taken to a hospital.

BOY'S MOTHER COLLAPSES. The boy is the son of L. L. Lane of 164 Jordan avenue. Last night the father and mother insisted on seeing the bodies of the victims, at which Mrs. Lane collapsed.

Tucker was for many years a member of the United States Forest service and resigned only a short time ago to engage in the work for the resumption of Russian trade.

Lane made an excellent record of achievement in France during the war. Since the war he has been an exhibition flier in Philadelphia. He is said to be a member of a wealthy family and a descendant of Charles Lane, a pioneer.

When the fire had been put out and the electric wires removed, Lane's body was found strapped in the pilot's seat. Tucker's arms were around the boy's body in the rear seat.

James Wormuth, pilot for the Prinsley airplane company, for which Lane was working, said Lane took off properly but that something must have gone wrong with his machine as he was unable to clear the wires.

EXPLOSION, FIRE
DAMAGE PLANT

An explosion that was heard throughout the downtown district occurred last night, when a large gas tank at the plant of the Burdett Hydrogen and Oxygen company, 1135 Third street, blew up. The damage was about $1000.

The plant was partially wrecked by the force of the explosion, which blew out doors and windows over a wide area, and the damage was further increased by the ignition of the escaping gas.

The explosion occurred at 10 o'clock. The escaping gas from the tank was ignited by an electric furnace and a fierce conflagration resulted.

Owing to the late hour there was no one in the plant at the time. No one was hurt.

The fire department extinguished the blaze after a fight which was directed by Fire Chief Elliott Whitehead.

Original Frank Will Missing; Copy Offered

Whether or not a copy of a will may be admitted to probate in lieu of the original is a question brought before Superior Judge E. C. Robinson by Attorneys Donahue and Hynes, who are asking that a copy of the will of Charles E. Frank, a race track man, be accepted by the court.

Frank died in Alameda, April 24 last, leaving an estate of about $25,000. His widow, Mrs. Gertrude Frank, who is asking for letters testamentary, says the will was made on December 21, 1918, and that it was given to Milton Schwartz, attorney, according to information given her by her husband. Schwartz has no knowledge of it. Donahue and Hynes insist that the original was in existence at the time of Frank's death, which is one of the requirements of law.

The copy of the will presented leaves $500 to a niece, Hazel Kahn of Peoria, Ill., and the balance to the widow.

Wife Opens Fight Against Divorce Suit

Replying charges made by Samuel M. Inman in his suit for divorce and making counter charges of extreme cruelty, Mrs. Cora Inman has filed in answer and cross-complaint in which she signifies her intention of contesting the suit and asking the court to give her the decree with custody of a daughter and alimony. Mrs. Inman declares that Inman has maintained an attitude of malignant cruelty toward her, has struck her and the child on numerous occasions and once threatened to kill her.

DAY OF FUN IS CITY'S PLAN FOR
U. S. SAILOR BOYS

Under arrangements completed today by the Merchants' Exchange, more than 1000 sailors from the Pacific Fleet, Mare Island and Great Island, will be entertained as guests of Oakland during the Independence Day celebration next Monday, when the amusement of the men in blue will center.

The men from the two local stations and the battleships New York and New Mexico, the two large ships of the fleet remaining in San Francisco over the holiday, will be brought to the Key Route pier at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon and will be provided with free transportation to the city and to the Idora Park, where the amusement of the men in blue will center.

FREE TO SAILORS

The gates of the park will be opened free to all men in sailors' uniform during the day, and free swimming and dancing will be provided. Plans are being made for boxing bouts for the Pacific championships between the station men and fleet boxers in the afternoon. A big free buffet supper will be served at 8 o'clock and the evening attractions will include dancing and a fireworks display in the stadium at 9:30 o'clock.

In further support of the celebration planned under the direction of the Merchants' Exchange for Monday, the City Council yesterday granted the Exchange the free use of the Municipal Auditorium theater for the literary exercises to be held during the afternoon, and the free use of the auditorium arena for the big grand public ball starting at 9 o'clock in the evening.

FRANKLIN SELECTED

Rabbi Franklin of Temple Sinai was yesterday selected by the committee in charge to deliver the invocation at the afternoon literary exercises, and Mabel Hatfield Turner was secured to render vocal selections.

School Budget of $3,671,626 Wins Fight
High Salary Level for Teachers Is $2220

The budget of the Oakland public schools for the coming fiscal year, carrying a total of $3,671,626.63, was adopted yesterday afternoon after a turbulent special session of the Board of Education that featured charges of politics and extravagance.

An attack on the budget was made by Director Fred A. Campbell when the document was laid before the directors for final action, and Campbell and Superintendent of Schools Fred M. Hunter were opponents in a bitter controversy before the issue was finally disposed of.

With two members of the board absent, it looked as though the budget would be turned down in view of the previous stand of Commissioner W. J. Baucus, an ex-officio member of the school body, who had refrained from registering his vote. Baucus, however, reconsidered and cast a favorable vote and the budget was adopted by Director Campbell registering the only negative.

INFORMATION ASKED FOR. Campbell launched his attack when the budget was presented, with a request for information as to how much money was to be spent during the coming year for salaries in the office of Superintendent Hunter.

"The Board of Education is going mad spending money," charged Campbell. "We must cut down our overhead expenses."

Continuing, Campbell charged favoritism in the department, alleging that principals in some of the biggest schools, who come into contact with thousands of children daily, are only receiving $4000 a year, while other officials who have office positions are paid $5750. The officials referred to were Assistant Superintendent Lewis B. Avery and E. Morris Cox, who were recently granted salary increases.

"All these questions were answered in the meeting of June 7 when the report of the committee on reorganization and efficiency was presented," broke in Mrs. Daisy Short. "Why was that report adopted unanimously and no questions asked, and now Director Campbell brings the question up?"

Mrs. Short added that it looked as though Campbell had gone outside of the department and talked the issue over with an outsider and had then come back with his complaint.

As soon as Campbell had finished Superintendent Hunter took the floor and hurled back a counter-attack in which he intimated that the raising of the issue was traceable to politics.

"I have expected to be abused since this issue was raised," cried Hunter. "From now on I expect this question to be brought up as long as my office brings in recommendations. My office has taken a stand against political control of the school department."

NAMES DEMANDED

His statement called for the claim from Campbell of an attempt to cloud the issue. "It is the high-class politicians who sit back in their chairs and do nothing who are running the public schools," he said, "and not the ordinary type of street corner politicians. They are the men who come out when a big issue arises and lobby from the front row for or against the issue."

Campbell then wanted to know who the politicians referred to by Hunter were, and offered to mention names if Hunter would do the same.

At this point in the controversy the issue was switched when President Lloyd R. Gray raised the question of the teachers' salary increases in the budget, the vote on the question was called for and the budget was adopted.

The total of $3,671,626.63 called for in the budget apportions $2,129,202.33 to the elementary school needs, $1,388,501.97 for high schools and $153,922.33 for kindergartens.

INCREASES PROVIDED FOR

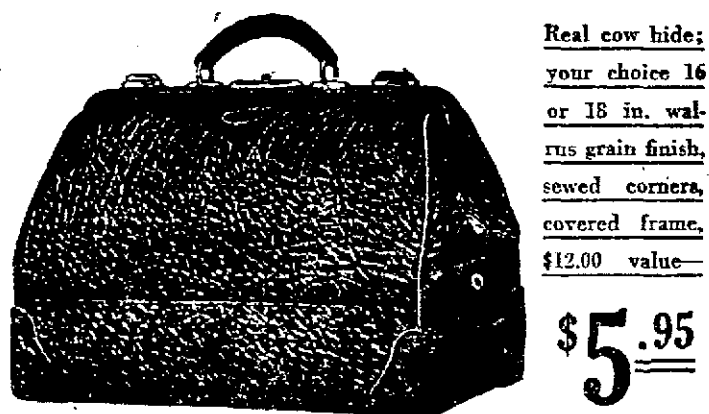

Of the total estimates for the coming fiscal year $15 per cent is in teachers' salaries, and $556,740 is included for salary increase of $420 a year per teacher. The increases provided for raise the maximum salary level of the elementary teachers to $2220 a year, and all high school teachers and pedagogical employees accordingly.

A report accompanying the budget brought out the fact that the average increase in prices for supplies and equipment during the past year was 61.1 per cent, and 117.1 per cent in the past three years.

The requirements necessitating increases in the budget estimates were listed as follows: (1) Estimated growth in enrollment requiring 104 additional teachers; (2) increased prices of staple supplies and equipment; (3) requirements of the new state laws providing for free high school textbooks and part-time continuation courses; (4) Essential repairs and improvements to the present school plant; (5) salary increases.
